

Contents

PREFACE

page 11

CHAPTER

I PHILOSOPHY AND RELIGION

1. The task	19
2. Natural theology	20
3. The stipulations of Lord Gifford	22
4. Popularity	24
5. The starting point	25
6. The goal	27
7. Philosophy and religion	30

II THE LINGUISTIC VETO

1. The linguistic veto	32
2. Ordinary language	33
3. Ideal language	35
4. Analytic and synthetic propositions	36
5. The principle of verification	38
6. Theological statements	41
7. The linguistic method	43
8. The language of religion and theology	45

III THE THEOLOGICAL VETO

1. The theological veto	47
2. A common scepticism	48
3. The rejection of reason	49
4. The closed circle	52
5. The claims of reason	53
6. Theological positivism	55
7. The ban rejected	57

IV RELIGION

1. The conflict of opinion	59
2. What religion is not	60
3. Religion and the whole man	62
4. Man and the Whole	64
5. The Idea of God	67
6. Worship	69
7. What religion is	71

V RELIGIOUS ABERRATION

page

1. Aberrations and obsessions	73
2. The obsession with the primitive	74
3. The obsession with emotion	75
4. The obsession with thinking	77
5. The obsession with morality	78
6. The spirit of intolerance	80
7. Wildness and rigidity	81
8. The deviation into politics	82
9. Hypocrisy	83
10. The significance of aberration	84

VI THE WAY OF NEGATION

1. The way of negation	87
2. Self-love and negation	89
3. Morality and negation	91
4. Self-love and religion	92
5. The negative way in religion	93
6. Must willing be self-centred ?	96
7. Nihilism	98

VII INTELLECTUAL IMPEDIMENTS

1. Different types of impediment	103
2. Religion and science	103
3. Religion and physics	105
4. Religion and biology	108
5. Religion and psychology	110
6. Religion and history	112
7. Religion and philosophy	113
8. The predicament of religion	114

VIII RESPONSES

1. Responses	116
2. The way of the two compartments	116
3. The way of archaism	118
4. The way of absurdity	119
5. The way of the kernel and the husk	121
6. The way of allegory	122
7. The way of religious experience	124
8. The way of psychical research	125
9. The need for philosophy	127

CHAPTER

IX THE WAY OF EXPERIENCE

	page
1. Religious experience	129
2. ' The Idea of the Holy '	130
3. The rational and the non-rational	131
4. Mysterium tremendum	132
5. The faculty of divination	135
6. Otto and Kant	137
7. The numinous and the holy	139
8. The appraisal of religious value	141
9. The apprehension of God's existence	142
10. Religion and philosophy	144

X THE MYSTIC WAY

1. The claims of mysticism	146
2. Ordinary prayer	148
3. The mystic way	149
4. Ecstasy and the spiritual marriage	150
5. The element of suffering	152
6. The element of negation	153
7. The difficulties of criticism	154
8. The question of validity	156
9. The voice of poetry	160

XI I AND THOU

1. Experience and encounter	162
2. I-Thou and I-It	163
3. The world of living relation	164
4. Some difficulties	166
5. The absolute relation	167
6. The way to the encounter	169
7. The mark of revelation	170
8. The God of reflexion	171

XII THE ARGUMENT FROM PERFECTION

1. Religious thinking	174
2. Arguments for the existence of God	175
3. The ontological argument	176
4. The philosophical background	178
5. The concept of perfection	180
6. Existence	182
7. The inference from perfection to existence	184
8. Existence is not a quality	186
9. Theoretical argument and religious conviction	188

CHAPTER

XIII THE ARGUMENT FROM IMPERFECTION

page

1. The cosmological argument	190
2. The five ways of St. Thomas	192
3. The conditioned	193
4. The unconditioned	195
5. Time and the conditioned	196
6. Necessary being	198
7. Metaphysics	200
8. Metaphysics and religion	203

XIV THE WORLD AND ITS DESIGN

1. The common world	205
2. The great and small	206
3. Energy	207
4. Law	208
5. Nature and law	210
6. Nature and design	212
7. Nature and beauty	215
8. The argument from design	215
9. Religious experience	218

XV THE APPEAL TO HISTORY

1. The appeal to history	222
2. The question of fact	225
3. The historical Jesus	227
4. The question of value	229
5. The theological interpretation	232
6. History and faith	236

XVI THE PHILOSOPHERS' WORLD

1. Science and common sense	239
2. Materialism	241
3. Phenomenalism	243
4. Platonism	246
5. Philosophy and religion	250

XVII MAN AND HIS EXPERIENCE

1. The man who knows	253
2. Experience	255
3. My point of view	258
4. Other points of view	262
5. The common world	263
6. Phenomenalism and materialism	265

CHAPTER

XVIII THE LIMITS OF KNOWLEDGE page

1. The given	268
2. Space and time	270
3. Imagination	272
4. Principles of synthesis	275
5. The phenomenal world	277
6. Antinomies	279
7. The self	280
8. The limits of knowledge	282

XIX THE GOOD MAN

1. Moral scepticism	286
2. The unstable society	288
3. Total and partial scepticism	290
4. Duty	292
5. Persons and society	295
6. Moral principles	297
7. Material principles	299
8. Practical reason	301

XX SCIENCE AND ETHICS

1. 'Is' and 'ought'	303
2. The super-ego	305
3. The ethics of evolution	307
4. The ethics of communism	309
5. Dialectical materialism	310
6. Historical materialism	312
7. Science and morality	314

XXI MORALITY AND RELIGION

1. Moral goodness	317
2. Freedom	318
3. Saints and sinners	320
4. Freedom and nature	322
5. The existence of God	325
6. Immortality	327
7. Religion and philosophy	330
8. Religion and morality	333
9. Some objections	335

CHAPTER

XXII GRACE

	page
1. The meaning of 'grace'	337
2. The grace of beauty	338
3. Divine grace	339
4. Acceptance	341
5. Service	342
6. Religious assumptions	344
7. The factor of emotion	345

XXIII THE WORLD AND GOD

1. Grace in the world	350
2. Religious assumptions	351
3. Providence	353
4. Special providences	355
5. The problem of evil	357
6. The charge of vagueness	359

XXIV MAN AND GOD

1. Humanism	362
2. Divine action	363
3. Divine action in the world	365
4. Contradictions	367
5. Intuitive understanding	369
6. Speculative theology	372

XXV THE MODERN PREDICAMENT

1. The modern predicament	374
2. Points of view	375
3. The scientific point of view	376
4. A critical philosophy	378
5. Psychology	381
6. The scientific attitude to life	382
7. The religious attitude to life	385
8. Faith and knowledge	387