

Contents

FOREWORD	page 9
ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS	15

I

Empiricism and Logic

I PRINCIPLES FOR SCIENCE AND PRINCIPLES FOR GOVERNMENT

1 Man the interpreter of nature	21
2 Discourse on method	22
3 Body and sense	24
4 The object of knowledge	27
5 The appearance becomes the object	29
6 The social contract	32
7 Appearance and reality	35
8 The bourgeois dilemma	37

2 SCEPTICISM AND CONSERVATISM

1 The abolition of matter	40
2 The road to solipsism	44
3 Knowledge, belief and superstition	48
4 Justification by faith	50
5 Morals and reason	52
6 Improving the ancient fabric	55

3 THE PHILOSOPHY OF SCIENCE

1 Francis Bacon was right	57
2 Dialectical materialism	58
3 The analysis of sensations	60
4 A misfit	62
5 Science and society	66
6 Positivism: methodology for social science	69

4 PRINCIPIA MATHEMATICA

1 Mathematical analysis	74
2 Mathematics and logic	78
3 The system of "Principia Mathematica"	80

4	The flaws in the system	83
5	The interpretation of logical and mathematical analysis	86
6	Logical and mathematical necessity	88
7	The object of analysis	89
8	Analysis and philosophy	91
5	IN SEARCH OF THE RIGHT ANALYSIS
1	Our knowledge of the external world	94
2	The uses of a razor	98
3	Common sense gets into difficulties	100
4	"Principia Ethica"	102
5	The refutation of idealism	106
6	A SPOT OF NONSENSE
1	The verification principle	111
2	The pictorial theory of propositions	114
3	Nonsense	116
4	Insight, therapy, analysis	118
5	The return to solipsism	120
6	A crop of difficulties	121
7	Logical positivism	125
	II
	Linguistic Philosophy
1	A THERAPY FOR THEORIES
1	Second thoughts about language	133
2	No theory—but a cure for theories	138
3	Words and their meaning	140
4	A programme for philosophical investigations	145
5	Stating what everyone admits	149
2	PHILOSOPHY AND ORDINARY LANGUAGE
1	The uses of philosophy	155
2	Informative and uninformative statements	158
3	Some very peculiar uses of language	161
4	Verifiability	164
5	Unanswered questions	165
3	THE ACTUAL USE OF LANGUAGE
1	Language and thought	170
2	Uses of words and what they have in common	173
3	Conventions of language and their uses	178
4	Words and what we do with them	181
5	Fact and fancy	185

4 LANGUAGE AND LOGIC

1	Meaning and logical necessity	189
2	Principles of formal logic	191
3	The formalism of logic	195
4	The logical behaviour of categories	198
5	Category of word and category of concept	201
6	Dilemmas of the category list	204
7	Categories, category-mistakes and informativeness	207

5 THE LANGUAGE OF MORALS

1	Morals and reason	211
2	The nature of moral reasoning	215
3	The problem of conflicting interests and ideals	219

6 LIBERALISM AND INDIVIDUALISM

1	The argument from universalisability	223
2	Principles and interests	224
3	Men as men	228
4	"I" questions and "we" questions	230
5	Choosing the worse	234
6	The social nature of morality	235
7	Individual and social questions	236
8	Social organisation and personal behaviour	238
9	Interests and reasons	239
10	Wanted—a materialist philosophy of man	244

7 A PLACE IN THE ESTABLISHMENT

1	Criticism of linguistic philosophy	245
2	The revolution in philosophy	248
3	Theorylessness	250
4	The logic of scientific discovery	253
5	Professionalism and specialisation	257
6	A class ideology	260
7	A place in the establishment	262

III

Marxism

I THE DIALECTICAL MATERIALIST APPROACH

1	A clean break	267
2	A scientifically based view of man	271
3	No final certainty	274
4	Methodology	276
5	The circularity and the test of dialectical materialism	282

2 THE LAWS OF THOUGHT

1	Formal logic	285
2	Categories	287
3	Dialectics	291
4	The laws of dialectics	294
5	Dialectics and materialism	298

3 SOCIALIST HUMANISM

1	Man and the universe	303
2	Social production	305
3	Human relations	307
4	Division of labour and private property	310
5	Alienation and the depersonalisation of human relations	313
6	Religion	317
7	Capitalism and socialism	320
8	Communism	324
9	The contemporary philosophy of man	330

4 COMMUNISM AND HUMAN VALUES

1	Science and evaluation	334
2	Human values and class interests	338
3	Ends and means	341
4	Freedom, necessity and obligation	345
5	Morality, intelligible and unintelligible	349

5 COMMUNISM AND MORALITY

1	Morality as an alienation effect	352
2	Morals and politics of class struggle	356
3	The empirical foundation of moral and political judgment	359

6 COEXISTENCE AND CONTROVERSY

1	The contemporary war of ideas	365
2	Communism and the technological revolution	370
3	Marxism and the linguistic philosophy	375

INDEX

379