

CONTENTS

PREFACE	xi
ACKNOWLEDGMENTS	xvii
INTRODUCTION	3
Longing and Social Discontent	3
Misleading Religious Analogies to Modern Discontent	10
The Philosophic Sources of the Longing for Total Revolution	18
An Outline of the Argument	27
Part One
ONE. MONTESQUIEU'S AND ROUSSEAU'S APPEALS TO CLASSICAL REPUBLICANISM	35
The Appeal to Antiquity	36
Montesquieu's Appeal to Classical Republicanism	40
Rousseau's Longing for Ancient Virtue	49
TWO. THE NOVELTY OF ROUSSEAU'S DISSATISFACTION WITH MODERN MEN AND INSTITUTIONS	61
The Novelty of Rousseau's Demand for Community	62
Rousseau and the Historicity of Modern Institutions	72
Rousseau and Revolution	81
Part Two
THREE. THE SOCIAL DISCONTENT OF THE KANTIAN LEFT	89
From Rousseau to Kant	90
The Kantian Left	98

CONTENTS

The French Revolution and the Kantian Left	107
Total Revolution and the Spirit of Modernity	118
The Three Waves of Left Kantian Speculation	125
FOUR. SCHILLER AND THE "AESTHETIC WAY" TO FREEDOM	133
Schiller's Social Discontent before Kant and the Revolution	134
Schiller's Critique of the Spirit of Modern Society	147
Aesthetic Education and Political Community	164
To Become Whole Again	177
FIVE. HEGEL: THE LONGING TAMED	185
The Young Hegel's Social Discontent	188
Hegel's Resignation to the Limitations of Human Freedom	209
Part Three
SIX. THE SOCIAL DISCONTENT OF THE HEGELIAN LEFT	227
Hegel and the Hegelian Left	230
Cieszkowski and the Third Epoch of "Praxis"	234
Left Kantian Echoes in Left Hegelian Social Criticism	238
Feuerbach and the Return to Nature	247
SEVEN. MARX AND SOCIAL REVOLUTION	251
Marx's Categorical Imperative	255
New Answers to Old Questions	261
Communism	264
The Capitalist Mode of Production	269
Proletarian Revolution	280
Contradictions Underlying Marx's Concept of Communism	290
EIGHT. NIETZSCHE AND CULTURAL REVOLUTION	310
Human Dignity and the "Bildungsphilister"	314
The Historical Sense and the Spirit of Modern Culture	322

CONTENTS

Nietzsche's Longing for Tragic Culture and Hegel's Acceptance of the "Death of Art"	329
"The Most Interesting Animal": Nietzsche's Later Understanding of Man's Humanity	341
Nietzsche's Longing for Great Politics: The "Spiritualization of Cruelty" and the Cruelty of the Spirit	356
CONCLUSION	365
BIBLIOGRAPHY	370
INDEX	387