

Contents

PREFACE xiii

Chapter 1 The Historians' South 1

ESSAYS 1

- W. J. Cash* • The Continuity of Southern History 2
C. Vann Woodward • The Search for Southern Identity 4
John B. Boles • The Difficulty of Consensus on the South 11
John Shelton Reed • The Three Souths 21
Further Reading 28

Chapter 2 The Atlantic World 29

DOCUMENTS 29

1. Map Shows Sixteenth-Century Atlantic Trade Ports, c. 1620 30
2. Plants, Animals, and Microorganisms Travel to and from the New World, 1500–1600 30
3. African Medicinal Plants Come to the Caribbean on Slave Ships, 1500–1600 32
4. Elmina, a Dutch Slave Fort, Holds African Slaves Captive before the Middle Passage, c. 1600 34
5. Englishman John Hawkins Details His First Voyage to the West Indies, 1562–1563 34
6. Guzman de Silva Writes to Philip II Regarding the Slave Trade, 1565 35

7. Journal of the Arthur Details the Slave Trade, 1677–1678 37
 8. John Barbot Describes the Slave Trade in Guinea, 1678 39

ESSAYS 42

Ira Berlin • From Creole to African: Atlantic Creoles and the Origins of African-American Society 42

Philip D. Morgan • Virginia's Other Prototype: The Caribbean 55

Further Reading 66

Chapter 3 Settlement of Red, White, and Black 68

DOCUMENTS 69

1. Captain John Smith Describes the Natives of Virginia, 1612 69
 2. Richard Frethorne Writes His Parents about His Indenture, 1623 72
 3. Nathaniel Bacon Leads Rebellion in Virginia, 1675–1676 74
 4. Virginia's House of Burgesses Tightens Statutes Involving Slaves, 1630–1705 77
 5. South Carolina Restricts the Liberties of Slaves, 1740 81
 6. Indian Trader John Lawson Writes about His Travels in Carolina, 1709 83
 7. The South Carolina Colonial Legislature Regulates the Indian Trade, 1751 85

ESSAYS 86

Kathleen M. Brown • Gender and Race in Colonial Virginia 87

James Axtell • Making Do 98

Further Reading 108

Chapter 4 The Maturing of the Colonial South 109

DOCUMENTS 110

1. Eliza Lucas Writes on Life in Colonial South Carolina, 1740–1742 110
 2. Colonial Georgia Debates Slavery, 1735–1750 112
 3. South Carolina Newspapers Advertise for Runaway Slaves, 1743–1784 116
 4. Merchant Robert Pringle Observes Life and Trade in Charleston, 1739–1743 117
 5. William Byrd II Discovers New Crops in Virginia and Deals with Cherokee and Catawba Indians, 1738–1740 120

6. Reverend Charles Woodmason Decries the “Wild Peoples” of the Carolina Backcountry, 1768 122

7. Naturalist William Bartram Describes His Travels in the South, 1773–1777 124

ESSAYS 127

Lorena S. Walsh • How Tobacco Production Shaped Slave Life in the Chesapeake 127

Jack P. Greene • Georgia’s Attempt to Become a Viable Colony 138

Further Reading 150

Chapter 5 The Revolutionary South and Its Aftermath 151

DOCUMENTS 151

1. Men in the Backcountry Articulate Their Grievances, 1767 152

2. Ministers Try to Convert the Carolina Backcountry, 1775 154

3. Lord Dunmore, Issues His Proclamation to Free Virginia’s Slaves, 1775 155

4. Thomas Jefferson Establishes Religious Freedom in Virginia, 1777 156

5. Eliza Wilkinson Describes Women and War, 1779 158

6. Southern Patriots Explain Their Concerns, 1774, 1780, 1781 160

7. The U.S. Constitution Deals with Slavery, 1787 162

ESSAYS 164

Sylvia R. Frey • The Impact of African American Resistance During the War 164

Michael A. McDonnell • Class War? Class Struggles during the American Revolution in Virginia 175

Further Reading 188

Chapter 6 The Emergence of Southern Nationalism 189

DOCUMENTS 189

1. Virginia and Kentucky Respond to the Alien and Sedition Acts, 1798, 1799 190

2. Southern Congressmen Defend Slavery in Missouri, 1820 193

3. Newspapers React to the Nullification Crisis in South Carolina, 1832 195

4. Georgia Passes Laws Extending Jurisdiction over the Cherokees, 1829, 1830 196

- 5. The Supreme Court Addresses Removal of the Indians from Georgia, 1831 198
- 6. John C. Calhoun Defends Slavery, 1837 201
- 7. South Carolina Tries to Nullify Federal Tariffs, 1832 203

ESSAYS 206

- Adam Rothman* • Civilizing the Cotton Frontier 207
- Don E. Fehrenbacher* • The Missouri Controversy: A Critical Moment in Southern Sectionalism 214
- Pauline Maier* • The Road Not Taken: Nullification, John C. Calhoun, and the Revolutionary Tradition in South Carolina 223
- Further Reading 232

Chapter 7 The Slaveholders' South 234

DOCUMENTS 234

- 1. Maps Show the Increasing Importance of Cotton to the South, 1821, 1859 235
- 2. Cotton Planter Bennet Barrow Describes Life in Louisiana, 1838 236
- 3. Two Site Plans Show Plantations in Georgia and Alabama, c. 1850 (1936) 240
- 4. William Johnson, a Free Black, Details Life in Natchez, Mississippi, 1838–1842 241
- 5. Edmund Ruffin Describes His Travels in the Carolinas, 1840 244
- 6. Charles Colcock Jones Provides Religious Instruction to Slaves, 1842 246
- 7. Charles Manigault Reveals Concerns of a Wealthy Planter, 1833–1853 249

ESSAYS 254

- Mark M. Smith* • Plantation Management by the Clock 255
- James Oakes* • Plantation Mastery 264
- Further Reading 272

Chapter 8 The Slave and Free Black Experience 274

DOCUMENTS 274

- 1. Harry McMillan, a Freedman, Describes His Bondage, 1863 275
- 2. Nancy Boudry, an Ex-Slave, Recalls Slavery, 1936 277

3. Harriet Jacobs Laments Her Trials as a Slave Girl (1828), 1861 280
4. George and Lucy Skipwith Write Their Master, 1847, 1857, 1859 281
5. Slave Traders Advertise Slave Auctions, 1842, 1855 284
6. Charleston's Free Blacks Fear Reenslavement, 1859–1860 285
7. Photo Shows Five Generations of a South Carolina Slave Family 287

ESSAYS 287

Brenda Stevenson • Distress and Discord in Slave Families 288

Peter Kolchin • Antebellum Slavery: Slave Community 298

John Hope Franklin and Loren Schweninger • Whither Thou Goest 310

Further Reading 316

Chapter 9 Women's Life and Culture in the Old South 318DOCUMENTS 318

1. Thomas Roderick Dew Idealizes Southern Women, 1835 319
2. Mrs. Virginia Cary Writes about Female Piety, 1830 322
3. Writings Reveal The Sorrows of Childbirth, 1809, c. 1800 324
4. Lucy Shaw Laments the Death of Her Child, 1841 325
5. Julia Blanche Munroe and Her Parents Correspond While She Attends School, 1847–1850 328
6. The Holly Springs (Mississippi) Female Institute Advertises its Offerings, 1859 330
7. Memorial of the Female Citizens of Fredericksburg Asks for Gradual Emancipation, c. 1831 333

ESSAYS 334

Elizabeth R. Varon • White Women and Politics in Antebellum Virginia 334

Anya Jabour • Educating Southern Women 342

Further Reading 354

Chapter 10 Nonslaveholding Whites 355DOCUMENTS 355

1. Ferdinand L. Steel's Diary Reveals Life of a Yeoman, 1838–1841 356

2. A Baptist Church Meets in Conference, 1859 358
3. Hinton Rowan Helper Attacks Slavery, 1857 359
4. Census Records Reveal Demographics of Guilford County, North Carolina, 1850 362
5. Edward Isham Describes His Violent Life, 1860 364
6. Travelers to the South Describe the Life of Yeomen, 1849, 1855 366
7. Newspaper Accounts Report on Camp Meetings in Virginia, 1819, 1820 371

ESSAYS 372

Charles Bolton • Edward Isham and the World of Poor Whites 373

Jeff Forret • The Underground Economy 385

Further Reading 393

Chapter 11 Sectionalism and Secession 394

DOCUMENTS 394

1. The Nashville Convention Offers Resolutions on Slavery, 1850 395
2. Reverend Thornton Stringfellow Defends Slavery, 1856 397
3. The Supreme Court Decides the Dred Scott v. Sandford Case, 1857 399
4. James Henry Hammond Praises King Cotton, 1858 401
5. Joseph A. Turner Reacts to John Brown's Raid on Harper's Ferry, 1860 403
6. Southern Newspaper Editors Speculate on Secession, 1860, 1861 405
7. The Jones Family Responds to the Republican Victory, 1860–1861 408
8. E. S. Dargan Speaks to the Secession Convention of Alabama, 1861 411

ESSAYS 412

Lacy K. Ford Jr. • South Carolina Leaders Defend Slavery and Secession 412

Eric H. Walther • We Shall Fire the Southern Heart: William Lowndes Yancey 420

Further Reading 434

Chapter 12 The Confederate Experience 435DOCUMENTS 435

1. Dick and Tally Simpson Describe the Life of Confederate Soldiers, 1861–1863 436
2. General Robert E. Lee Writes to J. E. B. Stuart and Jefferson Davis 440
3. Photo Shows Dead Confederate Soldiers of General Starke, Hagerstown Pike, 1862 442
4. Joseph E. Brown Attacks Conscription, 1862 443
5. Nonslaveholders Protest Wartime Inequities, 1861, 1863 445
6. The Confederacy Struggles with Desertion and Disaffection, 1863 446
7. Confederate Women React to War, 1862–1865 449
8. Catherine Devereux Edmonston Writes about War, 1862–1864 452

ESSAYS 454

- Emory M. Thomas* • The Revolution Brings Revolutionary Change 454
- Paul D. Escott* • The Failure of Confederate Nationalism 457
- Drew Gilpin Faust* • “We Shall Never ... Be the Same”: How War Affected Southern Women 460
- Further Reading 465

Chapter 13 Emancipation and Reconstruction 467DOCUMENTS 467

1. Ex-Slaves Recall Their First Taste of Freedom, 1937 468
2. Clarissa Burdett Recounts the Difficulties of a Black Soldier’s Wife, 1865 469
3. Thaddeus Stevens Advocates the Redistribution of Land, 1865 470
4. Mary Jones Shares Her Concerns about Reconstruction, 1865, 1866 472
5. Congress Passes the Military Reconstruction Act, 1867 476
6. The Presbyterian Church in the United States Engages in Religious Uplift 1866, 1868 477
7. Generals Steedman and Fullerton Report on the Freedmen’s Bureau in the South, 1866 479

8. Freedmen and Women Testify before Congress on the Ku Klux Klan, 1871 482

ESSAYS 485

Hannah Rosen • Houses, Yards, and Other Domestic Domains 485

Sally G. McMillen • A Cure for the South 499

Further Reading 510