

Contents

Acknowledgement .....	9
Introduction .....	11
1. The purpose and limitations of this paper .....	11
2. Evidence .....	12
3. Terminological remarks .....	15
Chapter I: Concept and Person .....	17
§ 1. Subjective Views .....	17
§ 2. Disposition and Capacity .....	18
1. Capacity – skill or talent .....	18
2. Uses of the words “can” and “able” .....	19
3. Disposition and capacity .....	21
4. Knowledge is capacity, belief is disposition .....	24
5. Other philosophers concerning knowledge – capacity, belief – disposition .....	26
6. Diagrammatic survey .....	30
§ 3. Concept and Capacity .....	31
1. Knowledge of criteria is necessary .....	31
2. The concept ‘criterion’ .....	31
3. Other philosophers concerning the concept ‘criterion’ ..	34
4. Criteria for a person having a particular concept .....	37
5. Other philosophers concerning the criteria for having a concept .....	39
6. Concepts are capacities .....	43
7. Which capacities? .....	46
§ 4. Concept and Knowledge .....	49
1. Concepts are knowledge .....	49
2. Can a concept contain any false beliefs? .....	51
3. Other philosophers concerning the relation between concept and knowledge .....	54
4. Objection to the thesis that concepts are knowledge ....	57

Chapter II: Concept and Language .....	58
§ 1. General Concepts .....	58
1. The concept 'C' and a concept of C .....	58
2. General concepts .....	62
3. Aphasia, an objection to the criterion of usage .....	65
4. Linguistic identification of concepts .....	68
§ 2. Concepts as Connection Between Language and Reality ....	69
§ 3. The Unlimited Capacity for Understanding Sentences .....	71
§ 4. Linguistic Views of Concepts .....	73
 Chapter III: Concept and Object .....	 75
§ 1. Concept and Object compared with other Cognitive     Capacities and their Objects .....	75
1. A concept is of an object .....	75
2. Delimitation of the class of concept-words .....	76
3. Concerning the number of instances of the concept ....	78
4. Concept and perception .....	81
5. Concept and memory .....	83
6. Concept and thought .....	85
7. Concept and knowledge again .....	88
8. Diagrammatic survey .....	91
§ 2. Intension and Extension of Concepts .....	92
1. Intension and extension .....	92
2. The reciprocal relations between intension and extension	97
§ 3. Metaphysical Preconditions for the Existence of Concepts ..	101
1. Concepts are intersubjective and open to objects .....	101
2. General phenomena .....	101
3. General phenomena are preconditions for the formation of concepts .....	103
§ 4. The Identity of Concepts .....	106
1. Concepts are changeable .....	106
2. The development of the subjective concept .....	111
3. The perceptual and functional parts of the intension of concepts .....	114
4. The analytical-synthetic distinction .....	117

§ 5. Objective Views of Concepts .....	120
1. Objective views .....	120
2. General refutation of objective views .....	121
3. Frege .....	123
4. Language and ontology. A critical comment on Frege's theory .....	129
5. On the concept 'subject'. An alternative approach ....	132
6. Bertrand Russell .....	137
7. G. E. Moore .....	140
8. Must the explanation and what is explained have something in common? An objection to Moore's theory	142
9. Logical regress and ontological regress – an objection to Moore's theory of truths .....	143
 Chapter IV: Logical Relations between Concepts .....	 147
§ 1. Can Logical Relations Between Concepts Exist? .....	147
§ 2. Generalization of the Problem: Can Logical Relations Exist?	149
§ 3. Contingent Identity .....	151
1. Definitions .....	151
2. Some elucidating deliberations .....	153
3. Does the identity exist between classes or between individuals? .....	155
4. An example of contingent identity: water and H <sub>2</sub> O ....	156
§ 4. The Solution: Contingent Identity between Concepts and         Particular capacities .....	159
§ 5. Two Objections .....	160
1. The same what? .....	160
2. Dummy sortals .....	163
§ 6. Logical Relations between Concepts .....	166
1. Logical and ontological dependence .....	166
2. The ontology of logical relations between concepts ....	169
3. Separation of the empirical/ontological level .....	171
4. Not two methods: a conceptual-logical and a linguistic-empirical .....	173
5. The empirical-logical method .....	175

6. The logical character of analytical propositions: the relation between the evidence of the proposition and its subject .....	180
7. Necessity – logical and empirical .....	187
Chapter V: Some Aspects of the Problem about Universals ....	190
§ 1. Universals .....	190
§ 2. Moderate Realism .....	191
1. Common properties .....	191
2. Resemblance presupposes a respect .....	192
3. The necessity of two types of concept .....	194
4. A concession to nominalism .....	196
5. Moderate realism and materialism .....	196
§ 3. H. H. Price's Defence of Nominalism .....	197
1. Resemblance and respect, the nominalist's reply .....	198
2. The realist retorts .....	198
3. Discussion of the nominalist's construction of classes ..	200
4. Final refutation of the nominalist's construction of classes	202
5. Resemblance, a universal .....	204
§ 4. Wittgenstein's Moderate Nominalism .....	205
1. The concept of family resemblance .....	205
2. The limitation of the extension of concepts .....	206
3. The extent of Wittgenstein's nominalism .....	208
4. Criticism of Wittgenstein's moderate nominalism .....	209
§ 5. R. Bambrough on Family Resemblance .....	210
1. 'The solution' to the problem about universals .....	210
2. Do all Ts have that in common of being Ts? .....	212
3. To be and to be called .....	213
4. What Churchill faces have in common .....	215
Bibliography .....	217
Index .....	222
List of Tables and Diagrams
Diagrammatic survey (capacities contra dispositions) .....	30
Language and reality .....	70
Diagrammatic survey (different cognitive capacities) .....	91