

Ralph Ellison: The Genesis of an Artist

VON
RUDOLF F. DIETZE

VERLAG HANS CARL NÜRNBERG
1982

TABLE OF CONTENTS

INTRODUCTION . . . . .	1
Chapter
I. Wells, Wright and Ellison: The Invisible Man and "The Man Who Lived Under- ground": Sources or Analogues? . . . . .	18
II. Three Studies of Anomie: Dostoevski's The House of the Dead , Notes from Underground , and Ralph Ellison's Invisible Man . . . . .	43
III. "The Love Song of J. Alfred Prufrock," The Waste Land , and Invisible Man . . . . .	67
IV. Malraux and Ellison: Shared Views of Man's Estate and the Concept of Artistic Creation . . . . .	111
V. From Youngblood to Trueblood, or Learning to Sing the Blues . . . . .	136
CONCLUSION . . . . .	170
NOTES . . . . .	175
BIBLIOGRAPHY . . . . .	196