

Contents

List of plates	x
List of figures	xi
List of tables	xii
Series preface	xiv
Preface to the second edition	xv
Acknowledgements	xix
PART 1 BASIC CONCEPTS IN EVENT STUDIES	1
1 Introduction and overview of event studies	3
What is event studies?	4
A framework for understanding and creating knowledge about planned events	7
How the literature has evolved	13
Major subdivisions (discourses) within event studies	15
Forces, trends and issues	20
2 The world of planned events	36
Describing and classifying events	37
Planned versus unplanned events	47
Description and examples of the major event forms	51
PART 2 FOUNDATION DISCIPLINES AND CLOSELY RELATED FIELDS	71
3 Anthropology, sociology, philosophy, religious studies and psychology	73
Anthropology	74
Sociology	79
Philosophy	88
Religious studies	92
Psychology	93
Environmental psychology	98
Social psychology	101
4 Economics, management, political science, law, history, human geography, future studies	105
Economics	106

Management	114
Political science	126
Law	129
History	131
Human geography	135
Future studies	140
5 Closely related professional fields	145
Introduction	146
Leisure studies	146
Tourism studies	156
Hospitality studies	161
Education and interpretation	163
Communications, media and performance studies	168
Arts and cultural management	171
Cultural studies	172
Sport management and sport studies	172
Venue, club and assembly management	175
Theatre studies	176
Health studies	178
Urban and community studies	179
Rural studies	180
Aboriginal, ethnic and multicultural studies	180
Visitor studies	183
PART 3 FRAMEWORK FOR UNDERSTANDING AND CREATING KNOWLEDGE	187
6 The event experience and meanings	189
Defining 'experience'	190
A model of the planned event experience	197
Generic and specific types of planned event experiences	199
Meanings attached to planned event experiences	214
7 Event design	221
What is event design?	222
Designing the setting	226
Theme and programme design	237
Service design and quality	240
Design of gastronomy and other consumables	243
Liberating versus constraining	244
8 Antecedents and decision-making	247
What are antecedents?	248
Barriers and constraints	260

Decision-making	263
Post-experience evaluation and feedback	267
9 Planning and management of events	269
Introduction	270
Leadership, founders and organizational culture	270
Organizational and inter-organizational behaviour	274
Planning and decision-making	283
Operations and logistics	286
Marketing and communications	290
Resources and financial management	293
Human resources and volunteer management	297
Risk, health and safety	302
Research, evaluation and information systems	305
10 Outcomes and the impacted	307
What are outcomes and impacts?	308
Personal outcomes	308
Social, cultural and political outcomes	311
Economic outcomes	317
Environmental outcomes	321
Impact assessment and cost–benefit evaluation	324
11 Events and public policy	331
What is public policy?	332
Justifying public-sector involvement	333
Economic policy and events	339
Cultural policy and events	341
Social policy and events	344
Environmental policy and events	346
Public policy-making	348
PART 4 CONCLUSION	353
12 Science, knowledge and theory for event studies	355
A framework for knowledge creation	356
Philosophy and knowledge	358
Research methodologies	364
Research purposes and methods	367
Theory development for event studies	374
A research agenda for event studies	378
References	387
Index	425