

MEMORIES OF
THE ASIA-PACIFIC WAR IN
U.S.—EAST ASIAN RELATIONS

The Unpredictability of the Past ❁ ❁ ❁

edited by Marc Gallicchio

DUKE UNIVERSITY PRESS DURHAM & LONDON 2007

⊗ CONTENTS

Acknowledgments ix

Introduction MARC GALLICCHIO I

I Memory's Many Forms

1. Remembering Pearl Harbor before September 11, 2001

EMILY S. ROSENBERG 15

II Policymakers and the Uses of Historical Memory

2. The First Revisionists: Bonner Fellers, Herbert Hoover, and

Japan's Decision to Surrender HARUO IGUCHI 51

3. History and Memory in Postwar U.S.-Japanese Relations

FRANK NINKOVICH 85

4. Cold War Diplomacy and Memories of the Pacific War:

A Comparison of the American and Japanese Cases

TAKUYA SASAKI 121

III Making Memory Concrete:

Museums, Monuments, and Memorials

5. Constructing a National Memory of War: War Museums in

China, Japan, and the United States XIAOHUA MA 155

6. The Enola Gay and Contested Public Memory

WALDO HEINRICHS 201

7. War Memories across the Pacific: Japanese Visitors at the Arizona Memorial YUJIN YAGUCHI 234

IV Transpacific Memories

8. Memory and the Lost Found Relationship between Black

Americans and Japan MARC GALLICCHIO 255

9. Entangled Memories: China in American and Japanese

Remembrances of World War II DAQING YANG 287

Concluding Remarks MARC GALLICCHIO 319

Contributors 329

Index 331