

CRITICAL APPRAISALS SERIES

General Editor: John Fletcher

VLADIMIR NABOKOV
America's Russian Novelist

G. M. HYDE

Marion Boyars
London

CONTENTS

General Editor's Foreword	7
Acknowledgements	9
Introduction	11
Bibliographical Notes	14
I Tradition and Innovation: The Gift (1952, 1963: written 1935-7)	17
II Three Early Novels: Mary (1926, 1970) King, Queen, Knave (1928, 1968) and Glory (1932, 1971)	38
III Laughter in the Dark : or, who killed Lev Tolstoy?	57
IV Two Games at Chess: The Defence (1930 and 1964) and The Real Life of Sebastian Knight (1941)	76
V Divided Selves: The Eye (1930, 1965) Despair (1936, 1966) and Lolita (1955)	99
VI History as Nightmare: Invitation to a Beheading (1935, 1960) and Bend Sinister (1947)	129
VII A Debt to Gogol: Pnin (1957)	149
VIII One Character in Search of an Author: Pale Fire (1962)	171

IX	Nabokov's Unreal Estate: Speak Memory (1967), Ada (1969) and Transparent Things (1972)	192
X	Positively Last Performance: Look at the Harlequins (1974)	211
	Bibliography	221
	Index	226