

Contents

Preface	v
Introduction	1
Part One The Nineteenth-Century Backgrounds: Kant, Hegel, and Existentialism	7
Chapter 1 Immanuel Kant: The Problems of Metaphysics and Morals	9
The Critique of Pure Reason and the Problem of Metaphysics	14
Transcendental Arguments	15
The Copernican Revolution	19
The Transcendental Ego	21
The Dialectic	23
Morality and Metaphysics	25
Freedom—The First Principle of Practical Reason	30
God and Immortality	34
Bibliography	37
Chapter 2 G. W. F. Hegel: Spirit and Absolute Truth	39
The Early Theological Writings	39
The Purpose of Hegel's System	45
The Phenomenology of Spirit	48
Knowledge of Things-in-Themselves	50
Spirit	52
Consciousness and the Dialectic	55
Self-consciousness: Master and Slave	60
Reason	62
The Logic and Absolute Knowledge	63
Bibliography	67
Chapter 3 Søren Kierkegaard: Faith and the Subjective Individual	69
Kierkegaard's Life as Related to His Thought	72
Kierkegaard on Christianity	73
The Attack on Hegelianism	77
The Meaning of Existence	84
The Dialectic and the Spheres of Existence	90
The Aesthetic Sphere	93
The Ethical Sphere	94
The Relationship Between the Aesthetic and the Ethical	96
Becoming a Christian—The Religious Way of Life	98
Freedom and Subjectivity	101
Bibliography	104
Chapter 4 Friedrich Nietzsche: Nihilism and the Will to Power	105
Nietzsche's Writings	106
The Attack on Systematic Philosophy	108
Values and Nihilism	111
Epistemological Nihilism	112
Moral Nihilism: The "Death of God"	115
The Nature of Morality	117
Morality, Reason, and Passion	120
The Will to Power	125
Slave Morality and Master Morality	130
The Übermensch	134
Eternal Recurrence	136
Nietzsche's Place in History	137
Bibliography	138

Part Two	The Twentieth Century: Phenomenology and Existentialism	141
Chapter 5	Edmund Husserl and Phenomenology: The New Way of Philosophy	143
	The Ideal of a 'Presuppositionless' or 'Radical' Philosophy	144
	The Philosophy of Arithmetic , Frege, and Psychologism	147
	Phenomenology and the Foundations of Philosophy	150
	The Object of Phenomenological Investigation	154
	The Natural Standpoint and Its Suspension: the Epoche	157
	Intentionality, Objects, and Acts of Consciousness	166
	The Transcendental Ego and Our Knowledge of Objects: An Unresolved Problem	174
	Bibliography	182
Chapter 6	Martin Heidegger: Being and Being Human	184
	What is Philosophy?	186
	The Problem of Being	191
	The Fallenness from Being	193
	Heidegger, Husserl, and Phenomenology	195
	Dasein as Being-in-the-World	198
	The World as Equipment	203
	Care	207
	Existenz : Possibility and Understanding	210
	Facticity and "Being Tuned"	213
	Average Everydayness: Fallenness and das Man	215
	Authenticity, Inauthenticity, Fallenness , and Angst	218
	Dasein and Temporality: Being-Unto-Death	223
	Heidegger's Ethics	227
	Being and Truth	232
	Logic, Language, and Nothing	238
	Beyond Metaphysics: Godless Theology	241
	Bibliography	243
Chapter 7	Jean-Paul Sartre and French Existentialism	245
	The Phenomenological Pursuit of Being	248
	The Transcendence of the Ego	256
	Consciousness: "Being-for-Itself"	258
	Nothingness	265
	Facticity and Transcendence: Absurdity and Value	272
	Existential Freedom: Action, Intention, and Emotion	279
	Bad Faith	288
	Being-for-Others	302
	My Body	308
	Relations with Other People	310
	"Existentialist Ethics"	313
	Bibliography	323
Footnotes		325
Index		347