

CONTENTS

Preface	v
Introduction	xi

PART I THE WORLD IN PHILOSOPHY

I WHAT IS PHILOSOPHY?	3
1: Philosophy as a Critical Reflection on the Meaning of the Whole which takes its Starting Point in an Analytic of Man's Being	3
2: The Historical Character of Philosophy	23
3: Philosophy as Critical Reflection on Man's Expe- rience	33
4: Concluding Remarks	50
II THE WORLD IN PHILOSOPHY	55
1: Introductory Considerations	55
2: The Mode of Being of Intramundane Things	58
3: The Mode of Being Characteristic of the World	64

PART II THE WORLD IN SCIENCE

Introduction	75
------------------------	----

III	LOGIC AND EPISTEMOLOGY OF SCIENCE	77
1:	The Logical Structure of the Theories of Natural Science	80
2:	The Logic of Scientific Discovery	87
3:	Scientific Explanation	103
4:	On the Mathematization of Nature	123
IV	THE WORLD IN SCIENCE	134
1:	The World of Common Sense and the World of Science	135
2:	Phenomenalism, Instrumentalism, and Scientific Realism	144
3:	On the Objectivity of the World of Science Accord- ing to Existential Phenomenology	155
4:	Summary and Conclusion	166
	Epilogue	169
	Selective Bibliography	173
	Index of Names	179
	Index of Subjects	181