

Jennie Batchelor • Gillian Dow
Editors

Women's Writing, 1660–1830

Feminisms and Futures

palgrave
macmillan

CONTENTS

Introduction: Feminisms and Futures: Women's Writing 1660–1830	1
Jennie Batchelor and Gillian Dow
Passing Judgement: The Place of the Aesthetic in Feminist Literary History	11
Ros Ballaster
Free Market Feminism? The Political Economy of Women's Writing	33
E.J. Clery
Feminist Literary History: How Do We Know We've Won?	51
Katherine Binhammer
Anon, Pseud and 'By a Lady': The Spectre of Anonymity in Women's Literary History	69
Jennie Batchelor
Authorial Performances: Actress, Author, Critic	87
Elaine McGirr

Pay, Professionalization and Probable Dominance? Women Writers and the Children's Book Trade M.O. Grenby	107
'There Are Numbers of Very Choice Books': Book Ownership and the Circulation of Women's Texts, 1680–98 Marie-Louise Coolahan and Mark Empey	129
Gender and the Material Turn Chloe Wigston Smith	149
Archipelagic Literary History: Eighteenth-Century Poetry from Ireland, Scotland and Wales Sarah Prescott	169
The 'Biographical Impulse' and Pan-European Women's Writing Gillian Dow	193
Postscript Cora Kaplan	215
Bibliography	225
Index	245