

Contents

Notes on contributors	ix
Foreword	xii
PETER KATZENSTEIN
Acknowledgments	xiv
1 Introduction	1
CHIP GAGNON, STEFAN SENDERS, AND KEITH BROWN
PART I
The post-conflict concept	17
2 The origins of “post-conflict”	19
AIDA HOZIĆ
3 Reconsidering “post-conflict” in the American way of war tradition: a short conceptual history	39
COLONEL ISAIAH (IKE) WILSON III
PART II
Recasting mission	57
Introduction to Part II	59
CHIP GAGNON
4 Democracy promotion as mission	63
CHIP GAGNON
5 Accompaniment as mission: a successful model from Colombia	79
KIM MARIE LAMBERTY

6 Gender, security, and religious freedom in post-conflict societies	98
EVELYN BUSH
 PART III
Criminalization	119
 Introduction to Part III	121
KEITH BROWN
 7 Post-conflict justice enclaves: the development of a war crimes justice model following the war in Bosnia and Herzegovina	125
CHRIS ENGELS
 8 Unknowing the other: a short essay on criminalization through narrative in postwar El Salvador	142
ELLEN MOODIE
 PART IV
Reflections on post-conflict as practice	155
 Introduction to Part IV	157
KEITH BROWN
 9 Post-colonial subjectivities in the post-conflict aid triangle: the drama of educational missionization in the Thai–Burma borderlands	161
ROSALIE METRO
 10 The sum of tiny things: civil society, democracy promotion and The Ugly American in Macedonia, 1995–2004	182
KEITH BROWN
 11 Social scientists in post-war contexts: bridging the gap between reflection and action	198
ELTON SKENDAJ
 12 Conclusion: toward a field of post-conflict studies	213
KEITH BROWN AND CHIP GAGNON
 Index	224