

Contents

PREFACE

|                                                 |    |
|-------------------------------------------------|----|
| 1. The Scope of the Problem                     | 1  |
| Work as a Psychological Problem          | 4  |
| A Transactional Approach                 | 7  |
| People Who are "Apparently Unemployable" | 11 |
| Summary                                  | 15 |

Part One/ Work and Society

|                                               |    |
|-----------------------------------------------|----|
| 2. Work as a Human Problem                    | 19 |
| Work and Technological Change          | 22 |
| The Technology of Work                 | 26 |
| The "Human" Aspects of Work            | 30 |
| The Hawthorne Studies                  | 31 |
| The Ability to Work                    | 33 |
| Summary                                | 36 |
| 3. Work as a Social Problem                   | 39 |
| The Sociology of Work                  | 39 |
| Work as a Social Role                  | 40 |
| The Problem of Work Alienation         | 43 |
| Work and Leisure                       | 56 |
| Summary                                | 62 |
| 4. Work and Human History                     | 65 |
| The Economic Interpretation of History | 66 |
| Work and Theories of Social Evolution  | 69 |
| Work and Social Organization           | 71 |
| Hunting and Gathering Societies        | 72 |

|                                                          |    |
|----------------------------------------------------------|----|
| Work in Early Agricultural and Pastoral Societies | 75 |
| The Grecian Example                               | 81 |
| The Rise of New Meanings                          | 84 |
| Work in the United States                         | 87 |
| Summary                                           | 89 |

Part Two/Work and the Individual

|                                                                         |     |
|-------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----|
| 5. Work as a Sphere of Behavior                                         | 93  |
| Definitions of Work                                              | 96  |
| The Forms of Work Behavior                                       | 100 |
| Work and Play                                                    | 101 |
| Work and Love                                                    | 105 |
| Summary                                                          | 108 |
| 6. Psychoanalytic Theories of Work Behavior                             | 110 |
| Freud on Work                                                    | 111 |
| Other Psychoanalytic Conceptions                                 | 112 |
| Common Themes of Instinctand Early Psychosexual Development | 118 |
| Summary                                                          | 122 |
| 7. Psychological Theories of Work Behavior                              | 124 |
| Super's Theory of Vocational Development                         | 126 |
| Ginzberg on Occupational Choice                                  | 132 |
| Anne Roe and the Origin of Occupational Interests                | 135 |
| Holland and a Theory of Types                                    | 139 |
| Tiedeman and the Technology of Choice                            | 141 |
| Summary                                                          | 142 |
| 8. The Characteristics of Work Environments                             | 145 |
| Toward a General Theory                                          | 145 |
| Structural Features                                              | 147 |
| Interpersonal Features                                           | 150 |
| Customs and Mores                                                | 152 |
| The Modal Work Personality                                       | 158 |
| The Twofold Aspect of Work Environments                          | 159 |
| 9. Some Components of Work Behavior                                     | 161 |
| Work and the Affects                                             | 161 |
| Work and Identity                                                | 165 |
| Work and Human Needs                                             | 168 |

|                                                          |     |
|----------------------------------------------------------|-----|
| 10. Components of the Work Personality                   | 177 |
| Theories of Personality                           | 178 |
| The Semiautonomous Nature of the Work Personality | 180 |
| The Productive Role                               | 181 |
| The Development of the Work Personality           | 182 |
| A General Theory of the Work Personality          | 186 |
| The Psychodynamics of Work                        | 190 |
| Summary                                           | 191 |

Part Three / Clinical Issues

|                                                          |     |
|----------------------------------------------------------|-----|
| 11. The Assessment of Work Potential                     | 195 |
| History                                           | 195 |
| The Mental Testing Approach                       | 197 |
| The Job Analysis Approach                         | 201 |
| The Work-Sample Approach                          | 203 |
| The Situational Approach                          | 206 |
| Applications                                      | 208 |
| Summary                                           | 212 |
| 12. The Techniques of Work Adjustment                    | 214 |
| Vocational Guidance                               | 214 |
| Therapeutic Counseling                            | 218 |
| Group Methods                                     | 223 |
| Nonverbal Techniques: The Rehabilitative Workshop | 224 |
| Summary                                           | 230 |
| 13. The Psychopathology of Work                          | 232 |
| Toward a Clinical Psychology of Work              | 232 |
| Type Theory                                       | 234 |
| Maladaptation to Work                             | 237 |
| An Empirical Study                                | 244 |
| Research Needs and Possibilities                  | 246 |

Part Four / Some Contemporary Problems

|                                         |     |
|-----------------------------------------|-----|
| 14. The Handicapped Worker              | 251 |
| The Multidisciplinary Approach   | 252 |
| Disability as a Status Condition | 259 |
| Disability and Work              | 263 |

|                                       |     |
|---------------------------------------|-----|
| 15. Social Barriers                   | 266 |
| Women and Work                 | 266 |
| Ethnic Minorities and Work     | 276 |
| 16. Work and Social Change            | 287 |
| The Environment and the Worker | 287 |
| Automation and the Worker      | 290 |
| Poverty and the Worker         | 297 |
| 17. Work in Perspective               | 303 |
| The Work Personality           | 305 |
| The Work Environment           | 306 |
| Maladaptation to Work          | 307 |
| The Future of Work             | 308 |
| BIBLIOGRAPHIC REFERENCES              | 312 |
| INDEXES                               | 325 |