

Contents

Part One Individuals, Jobs, and Groups 1

THE MEANING OF WORK 3

1

The Impact of the Industrial Revolution. Needs Satisfied by Working. Primarily Physical and Security Needs. Primarily Social Needs. Primarily Egoistic Needs. Relative Importance of Various Needs. How Important Is Job Satisfaction? Conclusion.

TECHNOLOGY AND JOB SATISFACTION: 30
BLUE-COLLAR WORK

2

Craft Work. Machine-Tending and Assembling. Positive Management Actions To Improve Mass-Production Jobs. Conclusion.

TECHNOLOGY AND JOB SATISFACTION: 59
AUTOMATION AND WHITE-COLLAR WORK

3

Automation and Continuous-Process Technology. White-Collar Work. Professionalization. Conclusion.

WORK GROUPS AND INFORMAL ORGANIZATION 83

4

Why Groups Are Formed. How Work Groups Are Formed. Internal Structure of Groups. Group Cohesion. Conclusion.

UNIONS AND LABOR RELATIONS 110

5

Why Union Problems Are Not Unique. The Course of Union Development. Why Employees Join Unions. Why Some Workers Don't Join Unions. Internal Organization of the Union. The Union-Management Relationship. Impact of the Union on Management. Evolution of Sound Union-Management Relations. Conclusion.

Part Two Leadership and Motivation 133

MOTIVATING PEOPLE TO WORK 135

6

Be Strong. Be Good. Implicit Bargaining. Competition. Internalized Motivation. Striking a Balance. Conclusion.

DELEGATION 155

7

The Meaning of Delegation. Substitutes for Decision-Making by the Boss. General Supervision in Practice. When Does General Supervision Work Best? Conclusion.

THE EXERCISE OF AUTHORITY 184

8

Developing Effective Relations. Personal Relationships. Job-Oriented Relations. Fair Treatment. Handling Mistakes. Legitimacy. Conclusion.

THE MANAGER AND THE GROUP 209

9

Building a Work Team. Developing Group Participation. Holding Meetings. Working Through the Informal Organization. Promoting an Informal Leader into Management. Conclusion. Leadership: A Last Word.

Part Three Managerial Skills 235

COMMUNICATIONS 237

10

Why Communications Break Down. Overcoming Barriers to Communication. Conclusion.

INTERVIEWING: THE FINE ART OF LISTENING 260

11

Historical Background. Listening as a Management Tool. The Use of the Nondirective Approach. Interviewing Techniques. Things to Avoid. Conclusion.

CONFERENCE LEADERSHIP 279

12

Internal Unity and Teamwork. The Chairman. The Agenda. Self-evaluation. Parliamentary Law. Conclusion.

INTRODUCING CHANGE 301

13

Types of Resistance to Change. What Causes Resistance to Change? Reducing Resistance to Change. Conclusion.

DISCIPLINE 325

14

Types of Discipline. The Role of the Union. Conclusion.

Part Four Organization 345

HIERARCHY 347

15

*Characteristics of Hierarchies. Special Problems of Extended Hierarchies. Patterns of Downward Communication. Patterns of Upward Communication. Statistical Controls. Conclusion.SPECIALIZATION 393

16

*Specialization and Job Satisfaction. The Need for Coordination. Basic Patterns of Lateral Relations. Organizational Implications of Increasing Specialization. Specialization and the Foreman's Role. Conclusion.CASE STUDIES OF LATERAL RELATIONSHIPS 423

17

Production Engineering: A Case Study of Failure. The Purchasing Agent: Tactics of Lateral Relationship.

MINIMIZING THE HUMAN PROBLEMS 446
OF LARGE ORGANIZATIONS

18

Fewer Levels of Supervision. Building Integrated Work Teams: A Systems View. Improving Coordination Between Groups. The Meaning of Decentralization. Personality and Organization Structure. Conclusion.

Part Five Management's Responsibilities 471

MANAGEMENT'S RESPONSIBILITIES 473
IN DEALING WITH PEOPLE

19

Historical Perspective. Management's Responsibilities in the Field of Race Relations. Satisfaction vs. Profitability. The Contemporary Scene: How Much Human Relations? Conclusion.

NAME INDEX 492

SUBJECT INDEX 496