
CONTENTS

Preface	xv
PART 1 ORGANIZATIONS AND THEIR GOALS	1
CHAPTER 1 THE ORGANIZATION	3
Formal Structure	3
Organizational charts
Bureaucracy
Informal Structure	7
The Hawthorne studies
The formal and informal organizations together
Goals of Organizations	10
Categories of goals
The Work of the Psychologist	12
Summary	13

viii CONTENTS

CHAPTER 2 MEASUREMENT OF GOAL PERFORMANCE	15
Productivity	15
Productivity and work music
Productivity and rest periods
Integration	19
Integration and job orientation
Integration and productivity
Morale	23
Morale and productivity
Morale and freedom
Morale and integration
The Goodness of Criteria	28
What should be measured
Reliability
Validity
Multiple criteria
The uses of criteria
Summary	33
 PART 2 HUMAN RELATIONS IN ORGANIZATIONS	 35
 CHAPTER 3 WHY PEOPLE WORK	 37
The Organization Versus the Man	38
A Theory of Human Needs	41
The hierarchy of needs
Deficit versus growth needs
The growth need and productivity
Productivity in the classroom
The Theory and the Company	49
The Principle of Common Goals	51
The Principle of Supportive Relationships	52
The Principle of Responsibility	53
The Scanlon Plan	54
Common goals
Supportive relationships
Responsibility
Questions
Summary	59

CHAPTER 4 THE ENVIRONMENT OF WORK	60
The Man-Machine System	62
A model of the man-machine system
Matching inputs to outputs
Adjusting time constants
Preventing overloads
Equipment Displays	66
Equipment Controls	70
The Work Environment	73
Lighting
Noise
Ventilation
Automation	79
Human problems in automation
Summary	85
 CHAPTER 5 GROUPS IN THE ORGANIZATION	 87
The Man-people System	87
The Work Group	88
Effective and ineffective groups
The Development of Group Goals	94
The Development of Supportive Relationships Within the Group	98
The Development of Group Responsibility	102
The Group System	105
The man-to-man and bureaucratic systems
Laboratory studies
The linking-pin function
Summary	111
 CHAPTER 6 LEADERSHIP AND SUPERVISION	 112
The Weakness of the Great Man Theory	113
The Influence of the Organization	115
The Influence of Followers	116
The Motivation to Lead	118
Dimensions of Leadership	120
Consideration	121
Psychological distance
Initiation of Structure	126

x CONTENTS

Consideration and Structuring	128
Delegation of authority
The Future of Leadership Research	134
Summary	135
 CHAPTER 7 COMMUNICATION	 136
Problems in Communication	137
Superior versus subordinate
Superior versus superior
A case study
The Use of Easy Words	144
Measurement of reading ease
The Improvement of Upward Communication	146
The measurement of employee attitudes
The general survey
The area survey
The specific survey
The Place of Action	153
Summary	155
 PART 3 ORGANIZATION DEVELOPMENT	 157
 CHAPTER 8 PERSONNEL SELECTION	 159
The Selection Process	161
Job analysis
The selection interview
The reliability of the selection interview
The validity of the selection interview
The use of the interview
Productivity versus integration and morale
Summary on the selection interview
The application blank
References
Aptitude and ability tests
Interest tests
The Strong Vocational Interest Blank
Kuder Preference Record—Vocational
Personality tests
The Value of Selection	181

Procedures in Selection	183
The Selection of Leaders	186
Education and intelligence as predictors
Matching leaders to the organization
Measurement of organizational climate
Sears, Roebuck and Company
The use of followers to pick leaders
Leadership motivation
Leaderless group discussion
Scales to measure leadership motivation
Leadership attitudes
Summary on selecting leaders
Summary	197
 CHAPTER 9 TRAINING	 199
A General Model for Training	200
Preparation for training
Exposure to training
Transfer of training
The International Harvester study
Current Practices in Training	204
The emphasis of training
Location and time of training
On-the-job training
Orientation training
Vestibule training
Apprentice training
Off-the-job training
Combining locations
Techniques of training
The lecture
The conference
The Harvard case study method
Cases with right answers
Job relations training
Role-playing
Multiple role-playing
Sensitivity training
Coaching
Position rotation
Learning programs

xii CONTENTS

The Improvement of Training	223
Specifying training goals
Task analysis
Improving the learning situation
The Evaluation of Training	229
The criterion problem
The experimental design problem
1. Measures after training without a control group
2. Measures before and after training without a control group
3. Measures after training with a control group
4. Measures before and after training with a control group
The Bell Telephone study
Summary	241
 CHAPTER 10 WORK INCENTIVES	 242
Productivity Incentives	243
The more important the job, the more pay
The more production, the more pay
The more pay, the more production?
Integration Incentives	254
Morale Incentives	257
The development of uninteresting jobs
The development of interesting jobs
Summary	264
 CHAPTER 11 APPRAISAL AND DEVELOPMENT	 266
Techniques of Appraisal	267
Observation of performance
Employee performance records
Rating scales
The level and spread of ratings
The ranking method
The halo effect
The forced-choice method
Which is the best form?
The Use of Appraisals	277
Planned performance appraisal
The Developmental Interview	280
Finding a common goal
Sticking to the present

Leading from strength
Listening
The Development of Supportive Relationships	287
The Place of the Professional Counselor	288
The psychotic worker
The neurotic worker
Neurotic anxiety
Anxiety as a creator of anxiety
The generalization of anxiety
Incomplete repression
The alcoholic worker
Aid for the disturbed worker
The normal worker
The superior worker
Summary	300
 CHAPTER 12 ORGANIZATIONAL CHANGE	 302
The Goals of Change	303
Theories of Change	305
Sensitivity training
System 4
Managerial Grid
Methods of Change	315
Plant Y: an individual approach
The Weldon Company: a systems approach
The Scanlon Plan
Sigma Plant: an interaction approach
The State of the Art	323
Summary	324
 PART 4 PROBLEMS AND SOLUTIONS	 327
 CHAPTER 13 THE JOB OF THE INDUSTRIAL PSYCHOLOGIST	 329
The Development of Industrial Psychology	329
The Hawthorne studies
The present era
The Education of the Industrial Psychologist	333
The Employment of Industrial Psychologists	335
The company psychologist
The consulting psychologist

The university psychologist
The government psychologist
Steps in Solving a Problem	339
Formulation of the problem
Review of knowledge
Preliminary observations
The hypotheses
A representative sample
The test of the hypotheses
The report of results
Use of the results
Summary	346
 CHAPTER 14: THE JOB OF THE EXECUTIVE	 347
The Organization	347
The Measurement of Goal Performance	349
Why People Work	350
The Environment of Work	351
Groups in the Organization	353
Leadership and Supervision	354
Communication	354
Personnel Selection	355
Training	357
Work Incentives	358
Appraisal and Development	359
Organizational Change	361
The Job of the Industrial Psychologist	362
 REFERENCES	 365
NAME INDEX	385
SUBJECT INDEX	391