

Contents

Foreword	vii
Michael Conforti
Introduction	ix
Charles W. Haxthausen
Part One: The Two Art Histories: Perspectives
Whose Art History? Curators, Academics, and the Museum Visitor in Britain in the 1980s and 1990s	3
Stephen Deuchar
Magnanimity and Paranoia in the Big Bad Art World	14
Ivan Gaskell
Between Academic and Exhibition Practice: The Case of Renaissance Studies	25
Andreas Beyer
Constructing Histories of Latin American Art	32
Dawn Ades
Art History and Its Audience: A Matter of Gaps and Bridges	45
Sybille Ebert-Schifferer
www.display: Complicating the Formats of Art History	52
Barbara Maria Stafford
Part Two: The Exhibition as Discursive Medium
Eloquent Walls and Argumentative Spaces: Displaying Late Works of Degas	63
Richard Kendall
Telling Stories Museum Style	74
Mark Rosenthal

Repetition and Novelty: Exhibitions Tell Tales	81
Patricia Mainardi
German Art—National Expression or World Language?	87
Two Visual Essays
Eckhart Gillen
A Case for Active Viewing	102
William H. Truettner
 Part Three: Impressionism: The Blockbuster and Revisionist Scholarship
Murder, Autopsy, or Dissection? Art History Divides Artists into Parts: The Cases of Edgar Degas and Claude Monet	115
Richard R. Brettell
A History of Absence Belatedly Addressed: Impressionism with and without Mary Cassatt	123
Griselda Pollock
The Blockbuster, Art History, and the Public: The Case of Origins of Impressionism	142
Gary Tinterow
Possibilities for a Revisionist Blockbuster: Landscapes/Impressions of France	154
John House
A Tormented Friendship: French Impressionism in Germany	162
Michael F. Zimmermann
Afterword	183
Richard Brilliant
Contributors	193