

CONTENTS

List of figures and tables	x
List of musical examples	xii
List of contributors	xiii
1 Introduction: Sensing gender in popular music Stan Hawkins	1
PART 1
Masculinities, femininities, community, and transcultural practice	13
2 Growing up to be a rapper? Justin Bieber’s duet with Ludacris as transcultural practice Barbara Bradby	15
3 “Where we going Johnny?” Homosociality and the early Beatles Matthew Bannister	35
4 From throat singing to transcultural expression: Tanya Tagaq’s Katajjaq musical signature Sophie Stévançe	48
5 Spectres of masculinity: Markers of vulnerability and nostalgia in Johnny Cash Eirik Askerøi	63

PART 2
Audiovisuality, sex(uality), women, and the politics of looking		77
6	“You mean I can make a TV show?”: Web series, assertive music, and African American women producers Anahid Kassabian	79
7	Holding on for dear life: Gender, celebrity status, and vulnerability-on-display in Sia’s ‘Chandelier’ Kai Arne Hansen	89
8	Gender, sexuality and the politics of looking in Beyoncé’s ‘Video Phone’ (featuring Lady Gaga) Lori Burns and Marc Lafrance	102
9	‘Working it’: Female masculinity and Missy Elliott Marita B. Djupvik	117
PART 3
Vernacular soundworlds, narratives, and stardom		133
10	High notes, high drama: Musical climaxes and gender politics in tenor heroes and Broadway women Freya Jarman	137
11	The gendered narratives of nobodies and somebodies in the popular music economy Keith Negus	152
12	Staging the ‘street boy’: Transculturalism, realness and hypermasculinity in the Norwegian rapper Jesse Jones Birgitte Sandve	166
13	Fairport Convention: Gender and voicing strategies in a sound signature Tor Dybo	182
14	“I don’t play girly house music”: Women, sonic stereotyping, and the dancing DJ Tami Gadir	196

PART 4
Gender, race, and the female celebrity	211
15 ‘A woman’s place’: Staging femininity in live music from Jenny Lind to the Jazz Age Steve Waksman	215
16 Beyoncé: Hip hop feminism and the embodiment of black femininity Marquita R. Smith	229
17 Performing race and gender: Erykah Badu between post-soul and Afrofuturism Erik Steinskog	242
18 “Armed with the faith of a child”: Marit Larsen and strategies of faking Jon Mikkel Broch Álvik	253
19 “Singing from the heart”: Notions of gendered authenticity in pop music Bridget Coulter	267
PART 5
Challenging hegemonic practices: New masculinities, queerness, and transgenderism	281
20 Doing hip-hop masculinity differently: Exploring Kanye West’s 808s & Heartbreak through word, sound, and image Marc Lafrance, Lori Burns, and Alyssa Woods	285
21 Express yourself! Gender euphoria and intersections Doris Leibetseder	300
22 Covering trans media: Temporal and narrative potential in messy musical archives Craig Jennex and Maria Murphy	313
23 Confronting the gender trouble for real: Mina Caputo, metal truth and transgender power Susanna Välimäki	326
Bibliography	347
Index	372