

PHILIP J. DEWE

CARY L. COOPER

WORK STRESS AND COPING

FORCES OF CHANGE AND CHALLENGES

 SAGE

Los Angeles | London | New Delhi
Singapore | Washington DC | Melbourne

CONTENTS

List of tables	ix
About the authors	xi
I INTRODUCTION	1
Stress and mental well-being at work	1
The themes running through the book	3
The structure of the book	4
II FORCES OF CHANGE	12
Globalization	12
A light touch of history	13
Historic changes and influences	14
Discourse surrounding globalization	16
The dark side of globalization	18
Summary	19
Technology	21
A brief history of computing	22
The other side of computing and the internet	25
Summary	27
Workforce changes, society and sustainability	29
Workforce changes	30
Society and sustainability	33
Summary	38
III THE EVOLUTION OF THEORY AND THEORIES OF WORK STRESS	40
A thematic approach to theory	41
Scientific management	41
Human relations	43
General systems theory and the contingency theme	46
From Lewin to person-environment fit	50
P-E fit and work stress	53
Lazarus and the process-oriented transactional model of stress	54
The P-E fit framework and work stress	57

The notion of balance in stress research	60
Jobs demands–resources model	62
Summary	64
Commensurability–relevancy–appraisal and meanings	65
Resources	65
Hopes for the twenty-first century	66
IV THE NEW MILLENNIUM: DEVELOPMENTS, CHANGE AND TURBULENCE	67
‘The first wave’	68
The positive psychology movement	68
Why Maslow?	71
Positive organizational behaviour	72
An affective revolution	73
‘The second wave’	77
The economic crisis	77
Corporate capitalism and its alternative design	78
GNP, happiness and the good work agenda	81
The good work agenda	83
Management: theory, practice and leadership	83
A moment to catch up	87
‘The third wave’	88
‘What may be’ for theories of organizational psychology and organizational behaviour	88
Bridging the gap between research and practice	88
Occupational health psychology	90
New pathways and new directions	92
Summary	94
V THE EVOLVING NATURE OF WORK STRESSORS: A PROLOGUE TO CHANGE	95
The shaping and refashioning of work	95
Restructuring organizations through mergers and acquisitions	97
The shift to knowledge work and the reshaping of work	99
The evolving nature of work stressors	104
Stressors: A brief history of change	105
Summary	108
VI A NEW GENERATION OF STRESSORS AND THE CHALLENGES OF MEASUREMENT	110
Job insecurity	111
The refining and reshaping of job insecurity – its multi-faceted characteristics; its subjective and objective characteristics	112

Job insecurity – its quantitative and qualitative characteristics	113
Job insecurity – its cognitive and affective characteristics	114
Consequences of job insecurity	115
Job insecurity interventions	116
Job insecurity – the concept versus the concept of employability	117
Flexibility and flexicurity – a postscript	119
Technostress	121
Technostress, computer anxiety and technophobia	121
Techno creators/stressors and their consequences	123
New concerns for health and well-being: technology's new behaviours	124
Problematic internet use	125
Cyberloafing, cyber incivility and cyberbullying	127
Work–life balance: From spillover to crossover	132
The refining of future research	133
The ideas of individual differences: segmentation and integration	134
The growing interest in workaholism	137
Measurement: The themes of refinement, relevance and reliability	138
The meanings given to stressors	140
Summary	141

VII COPING WITH STRESS, FUTURE DIRECTIONS AND CHALLENGES

VII COPING WITH STRESS, FUTURE DIRECTIONS AND CHALLENGES	142
The coping research context and the growing variety of coping strategies	142
The varieties of coping	144
Religious coping	145
Meaning-focused coping	147
Stress related growth	148
Proactive coping	149
Culture and collective coping	150
Collaborative coping and communal coping	151
Leisure coping	152
Changing the face of coping: Positive emotions	154
Emotion approach coping	156
The meaning of coping effectively	159
Coping flexibility	161
Coping: A postscript	162
Coping and ageing	162
Coping and gender	163
Coping and personality	164

Where to from here?	165
Meaning	166
Context	167
Measurement	168
Summary	169
VIII INTERVENTIONS AND CHALLENGES	171
The theory of preventive stress management	173
The role of an applied discipline – the academic–practitioner divide debate	175
Stress interventions and the emphasis on evaluation	181
The guidance from the field of training and development	185
Accounting for people as a means of expressing the ‘wellness’ of an organization	187
Summary	192
IX CONCLUSIONS	194
The changing nature and character of the forces of change	195
The role of meaning in work stress research	198
The importance and explanatory power of context	199
Refinement and the rigour–relevance debate	200
References	203
Index	247