

On Company Time

AMERICAN MODERNISM

IN THE BIG MAGAZINES

Donal Harris

COLUMBIA UNIVERSITY PRESS NEW YORK

CONTENTS

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS VII

- Introduction: Making Modernism Big I
- I. Willa Cather's Promiscuous Fiction 29
- Personifying Periodicals 29
 - Gentlemen, Mobs, Magazines 38
 - Office Lives and Office Wives 42
 - The Social Life of the Unfurnished Novel 55
2. Printing the Color Line in The Crisis 61
- The Mechanics of a Race Magazine 74
 - Du Bois's Problem with "Plain Ink" 82
 - Frank Walts's Flat Pictures 86
 - Jessie Fauset's Serial Stories 96
3. On the Clock: Rewriting Literary Work at Time Inc. 107
- Finding Work 107
 - Administrative Poets 114

Punching the Clock	120
Unwriting Famous Men	127
Incorporating the Porch	133
4. Our Eliot: Mass Modernism and the American Century	141
The Uses of T.S. Eliot	141
The Outside of Modernism	151
How to Make The Waste Land American	157
The Internationalism of American Magazines	163
Forgetting “Mr. Eliot”	166
5. Hemingway’s Disappearing Style	173
Paying for Pilar	173
Picturing the Old Man	177
The Myth of Hemingwayese	183
The Spread of Hemingwayesque	188
The Surface of the Sea	195
Afterword: Working from Home	203
NOTES	215
BIBLIOGRAPHY	243
INDEX	261