

TRANSITS

Satire, Celebrity, and Politics
in Jane Austen

JOCELYN HARRIS

LEWISBURG
BUCKNELL UNIVERSITY PRESS

List of Illustrations	xi
Acknowledgments	xiii
Abbreviations	xv
Introduction	xvii
1 “Ungossiping Authority”: Fanny Burney, Cassandra Cooke, and Jane Austen	1
2 “He Swore and He Drank, He Was Dirty and Gross”: Lieutenant Price and Lieutenant Phillips	71
3 “Everybody Is Cross and Teasing”: The Mansfield Theatricals	101
4 “Censure in Common Use”: Women, Politics, and Satire	143
5 “Carried Home, Dead Drunk”: Satires on the Royal Family	161
6 “Hair So Untidy, So Blowsy!”: Elizabeth Bennet, Dorothy Jordan, and the Duke of Clarence	213
7 “Half Mulatto, Chilly and Tender”: Sanditon , the Duke of Clarence, and Sara Baartman, the “Hottentot Venus”	249
Conclusion: The Belated Celebrity of Jane Austen	299
Appendix A: Mr. Joseph Nutting, Army Button Maker of Covent-Garden	303

C O N T E N T S

Appendix B: The Woman of Colour and “Wowski”	305
Appendix C: Lady Caroline Lamb and Lord Byron	311
Bibliography	315
Index	339
About the Author	349