

Contents

Acknowledgments xiii

List of Abbreviations xv

Chronology xvii

Introduction 1

1. Aristotle: Life and Works 8

- 1.1 Aristotle in the ancient biographical tradition 8
- 1.2 Aristotle's character 16
- 1.3 The facts of Aristotle's life 18
- 1.4 Reading Aristotle 23
- 1.5 Aristotle's corpus and the structure of the Aristotelian sciences 32
- 1.6 Conclusions 38

2. Explaining Nature and the Nature of Explanation 43

- 2.1 Beginning in wonder 43
- 2.2 Explaining explaining: The four causes 47
- 2.3 A puzzle about change and generation 57
- 2.4 Matter and form I: Aristotle's hylomorphism 60
- 2.5 Matter and form II: Hylomorphism refined and expanded 66
- 2.6 The efficient cause 73
- 2.7 The final cause I: Problems with Aristotle's commitment to teleology 80

|  |            |
|--|------------|
| 2.8 The final cause II: Teleology exploredand grounded                 | 91         |
| 2.9 Relations among the causes   | 104        |
| 2.10 Conclusions   | 109        |
| 3. Thinking: Scientifically, Logically, Philosophically             | 116 |
| 3.1 Definition   | 116        |
| 3.2 Essence and accident   | 117        |
| 3.3 The structure of scientific knowledge                                  | 124        |
| 3.4 An overview of Aristotelian logic                                      | 138        |
| 3.5 Dialectic  | 146        |
| 3.6 Univocity and homonymy   | 155        |
| 3.7 Conclusions  | 166        |
| 4. Aristotle's Early Ontology: Categories – Truth,and Modality | 172 |
| 4.1 The general orientation of Aristotle'sCategories            | 172        |
| 4.2 Aristotle's work: The Categories                                | 177        |
| 4.3 The Pre-Categories : An anti-Platonicconviction             | 178        |
| 4.4 The Theory of Categories : Kindsof beings                   | 184        |
| 4.5 Generating the categories  | 187        |
| 4.6 The fundamentality of substance  | 201        |
| 4.7 A puzzle about bi-valence and modality:Tomorrow's sea battle       | 211        |
| 4.8 Conclusions  | 223        |
| 5. Puzzles of Nature  | 232 |
| 5.1 Change   | 232        |
| 5.2 The infinite   | 240        |
| 5.3 Time   | 243        |
| 5.4 Zeno's paradoxes of motion   | 253        |

|           |  |            |
|-----------|--|------------|
| 5.5       | The unmoved mover  | 259        |
| 5.6       | Conclusions  | 268        |
| 6. | Substance and the Science of Being qua Being       | 274 |
| 6.1       | Aristotle's metaphysical interests                               | 274        |
| 6.2       | Aristotle's work: The Metaphysics                         | 275        |
| 6.3       | A puzzle remaining from the Physics                       | 276        |
| 6.4       | The science of being qua being                            | 279        |
| 6.5       | The most basic principle of all science                          | 289        |
| 6.6       | Substance reconsidered: Form and actuality                       | 298        |
| 6.7       | Conclusions  | 312        |
|           | 7. Living Beings  | 317 |
| 7.1       | Psychological applications of hylomorphism                       | 317        |
| 7.2       | The soul: Life is meant in many ways                             | 318        |
| 7.3       | The soul: Against reductive materialismand substance dualism | 326        |
| 7.4       | The hylomorphic analysis of living beings                        | 334        |
| 7.5       | A problem for soul-body hylomorphism                             | 339        |
| 7.6       | Perception   | 343        |
| 7.7       | Thinking and the active mind                                     | 349        |
| 7.8       | Conclusions  | 358        |
|           | 8. Living Well  | 362 |
| 8.1       | The final good for human beings                                  | 362        |
| 8.2       | The character of human happiness:Preliminary considerations  | 367        |
| 8.3       | Happiness and the human function                                 | 373        |
| 8.4       | The virtues of character   | 381        |
| 8.5       | A puzzle about akrasia                                    | 388        |
| 8.6       | Friendship   | 393        |
| 8.7       | The final good for human beingsreconsidered                  | 400        |
| 8.8       | Conclusions  | 407        |

|      |  |            |
|------|--|------------|
|      | 9. Political Association                        | 412 |
| 9.1  | The orientation of Aristotle's political theory        | 412        |
| 9.2  | The emergence and priority of the polis                | 416        |
| 9.3  | The best constitution                                  | 427        |
| 9.4  | An ugly aspect of Aristotle's politicalnaturalism? | 432        |
| 9.5  | Conclusions  | 437        |
|      | 10. Rhetoric and the Arts                       | 441 |
| 10.1 | Aristotle's orientation in rhetoricand the arts    | 441        |
| 10.2 | Rhetoric as a craft                                    | 444        |
| 10.3 | Poetic production                                      | 448        |
| 10.4 | Tragedy  | 452        |
| 10.5 | Catharsis  | 454        |
| 10.6 | Mimêsis   | 459        |
| 10.7 | Prescriptive or descriptive?                           | 462        |
| 10.8 | Conclusions  | 465        |
|      | 11. Aristotle's Legacy                          | 468 |
| 11.1 | Aristotle's legacy into the modern period              | 468        |
| 11.2 | Aristotle today  | 472        |

Glossary 479

Bibliography 495

Index 502