
Contents

Foreword	vii
David D. Thornburg
Preface	ix
Acknowledgments	xvi
About the Author	xvii
 PART I. STORYTELLING, EDUCATION, AND THE NEW MEDIA
1. Confessions of a Digital Storytelling Teacher: Twenty Revelations About Digital Storytelling in Education	2
2. Defining and Discussing Digital Storytelling: Helping Teachers See, Think, and Talk About Digital Storytelling	16
3. Digital Storytelling as an Educational Tool: Standards, Planning, and Literacy	48
4. Assessing Digital Stories: The Opportunities and Challenges of New Media Evaluation	83
 PART II. THE ART AND PRACTICE OF STORYTELLING
5. Thinking About Story: The Story Core, Story Mapping, Story Types	94
6. Applying Story Maps, Using Story Tables: Seeing the Core, Mapping the Story, Creating a Story Table	115
7. Story Planning Considerations: Tips, Techniques, Lessons Learned	127

8. Transformation Formations: How We, and the Characters in Our Stories, Change	139
9. More Story Maps: From Aristotle to Present Day	146
10. Other Kinds of Stories: Other Story Forms and Story Perspectives	158
PART III. GOING DIGITAL
11. The Media Production Process, Phase I: Developing the Story	172
12. The Media Production Process, Phases II–V: From Preproduction to Performance	191
13. The Digital Storytelling Toolbox: The Tools Teachers and Students Need to Tell Digital Stories	212
14. Media Grammar for Teachers: Assessing Media Expression	226
15. Copyright, Fair Use, and UOPS: Living in the Gray Zone, Doing the Right Thing, and Protecting Yourself	245
Epilogue: If I Had a Time Machine . . .	260
Resource A. Teaching Oral Storytelling	262
Resource B. Audio Techniques for Video Recording Oral Storytelling	264
Resource C. Audio Techniques for Interviewing People	266
Resource D. Freytag’s Pyramid	268
Resource E. Grammar of Camera Angles	270
Resource F. What’s Scannable?	272
Resource G. Joseph Campbell’s Story Adventure Diagram	273
Resource H. Visual Portrait of a Story	274
References	276
Index	279

Access videos and other resources related to Digital Storytelling in the Classroom at <http://www.corwin.com/digitalstorytelling>