

T. Price Caldwell

Oliver Cresswell • Robert J. Stainton
Editors

Discourse, Structure and Linguistic Choice

The Theory and Applications of Molecular
Sememics

 Springer

Contents

Part I The Theory

1	The Epistemologies of Linguistic Science: Reassessing Structuralism, Redefining the Sememe	3
2	Molecular Sememics: Toward A Model of an Ordinary Language . . .	13
3	Whorf, Orwell, and Mentalese (The Molecular Sememe: Some Implications for Semantics)	33
4	The Coerciveness of Discourse	45
5	Molecular Sememics (Unfinished Book Manuscript)	57
	5.1 The Molecular Sememe	57
	5.2 History and Method	64
	5.3 Tactics and Assumptions	73
	5.4 Qualities of the Sememe	83
	5.5 Teleological Structures	86

Part II The Applications

6	The Molecular Sememe: A Model for Literary Interpretation	91
7	The Rhetoric of Plain Fact: Stevens' "No Possum, No Sop, No Taters"	97
8	American Shoot-Out: Hemingway vs. Richard Ford	105
9	What I Have Learned About English from Being in Japan (Or: Why Can't Japanese Students of English Manage "A", "An" and "The"?)	117
	Bibliography	131