

Courts and the Environment

---

Edited by

Christina Voigt

Professor, Faculty of Law, University of Oslo, Norway

Zen Makuch

Director, Sustainable Transitions, Imperial College London, UK; Barrister

THE IUCN ACADEMY OF ENVIRONMENTAL LAW SERIES

 Edward Elgar
PUBLISHING

Cheltenham, UK • Northampton, MA, USA

Contents

---

List of figures	viii
List of contributors	ix
Courts and the Environment: An Introduction Christina Voigt and Zen Makuch	xii
PART I CONCEPTUALIZING THE ROLE OF COURTS IN PROTECTING THE ENVIRONMENT
1. The nature of courts Nicholas A. Robinson	2
2. Bridging the gap between aspiration and outcomes: the role of the court in ensuring ecologically sustainable development Justice Brian Preston, Paul Martin and Amanda Kennedy	35
3. The legitimate role of rights-based approaches to environmental conflict resolution Trevor Daya-Winterbottom	59
PART II TAKING THE LEAD: THE COURT AS TRAILBLAZER FOR ENVIRONMENTAL PROTECTION
4. Ghana's courts and environmental rule of law Godwin E. K. Dzah	85
5. Activity of the Brazilian judiciary in the Amazon and Cerrado biomes aimed at combating global warming Heline Sivini Ferreira, Diogo Andreola Serraglio and Rullyan Levi Maganhati Mendes	113
6. Procedural and substantive innovations propounded by the Indian judiciary in balancing protection of environment and development: a legal analysis Stellina Jolly and Zen Makuch	142

PART III ACCESS TO JUSTICE FOR THE ENVIRONMENT

- |     |  |     |
|-----|--|-----|
| 7.  | Inviting civil society to the table: the case of the African CommissionNora Ho Tu Nam   | 170 |
| 8.  | Collective environmental litigation in Colombia: an empirical assessmentEveraldo Lamprea and Angela M. Páez   | 190 |
| 9.  | Are courts colour blind to country? Indigenous cultural heritage, environmental law and the Australian judicial systemJustice Rachel Pepper and Lauren Butterly | 211 |
| 10. | What Chinese courts could learn from the USA: the approach of public interest litigation under the new China Environmental Protection LawZhuoxian Zhang         | 228 |
| 11. | Protection of environmental rights of citizens in the courts of Kazakhstan, Russia and UkraineAleksandra Chornous and Nikolay Kichigin                          | 250 |

PART IV COURTS IN ACTION

- |     |  |     |
|-----|--|-----|
| 12. | The challenge of bringing transnational corporations to justice for environmental damage: a case study of Texaco Oil Company and Chevron vs Lago Agrio PlaintiffsMaría Augusta León Moreta and Bingyu Liu | 271 |
| 13. | Enhancing corporate responsibilities to fulfil the right to a clean environment: a lesson learned from Indonesian courtsYetty Komalasari Dewi and Anbar Jayadi  | 290 |
| 14. | The Urgenda case: a successful example of public interest litigation for the protection of the environment?Otto Spijkers  | 305 |
| 15. | US climate change adjudication: the epic journey from a petition for rulemaking to national greenhouse gas regulationDavid Hodas  | 345 |
| 16. | A review of environmental courts and tribunals for CSOs and the judiciaryRia Guidone and Holly Jonas  | 369 |

17. Swedish environmental courts – specialized civil and administrative courts Anders Bengtsson	389
Index	419