ABSTRACT	4
ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS	6
LIST OF FIGURES	12
INTRODUCTION	23
Framing the work: aims and research questions	28
Thesis structure	33
CHAPTER 1 – SETTING UP THE SCENE: COSTUME DESIGN IN ANIMATION	39
Costume design and character representation	40
Costumes as visual connectors of narrative	46
Costume and performance	49
Drawing and real-life representation	52
Costume design in the context of computer animation	56
Conclusion	64
CHAPTER 2 – RESEARCH DESIGN	71
2.1 Case study research	72
2.2 Research data collection methods	74
Archival research	74
Interviews	75
Research materials	81
2.3 Methods for data analysis	82
Content analysis	83
Visual analysis: visual and audio-visual materials	86
Comparative analysis	89

2.4 Theoretical frame: Key concepts and theories employed for the study of digital character costume design	90
Somaesthetics and sensory perception	92
Theories of embodiment	95
Theories on materiality	97
 CHAPTER 3 – COSTUME DESIGNERS AS PART OF COLLABORATIVE COMPUTER-ANIMATED FILM PRODUCTIONS	 105
3.1 Story development and costume design	109
3.2 Visual materials as part of collaboration	120
Art direction and concept art: the starting point for costume design	120
Texture information in mood boards	127
Storyboards informing story development	129
Costume drawings	131
Character development with maquettes	137
3.3 ‘Nothing underneath it exists’: Absence of the actor in the collaboration	142
3.4 Conclusion	147
 CHAPTER 4 – DIGITALLY ANIMATED COSTUMES	 155
4.1 Digital costume models	158
4.2 The effect of computer animation software in the design of costumes	169
4.3 The physical condition of a costume tells a narrative	179
4.4 The same, but different: Costume design for the crowds	189
4.5 Conclusion	204

CHAPTER 5 – FROM TANGIBLE MATERIALS TO DIGITAL COSTUMES	209
5.1 Tangible and visual materials as part of costume design development	213
5.2 Two-dimensional patterns turn to three-dimensional digital costumes	228
5.3 Costume in motion	237
5.4 End result: Digital textures	242
5.5 Conclusion	250
CHAPTER 6 – RESEARCH CONCLUSIONS	257
6.1 Limitations of the study	267
6.2 Setting up the future: Return to research ideas and implications of this study for the animation industry	269
