

Contents

1	Introduction .....	1
	Mette Lebech
Part I The Text of Ideas II and the Collaboration Between Stein and Husserl
2	The Collaboration of Husserl and Stein. Historical and Phenomenological Approaches .....	17
	Anna Varga-Jani
3	Husserl and Stein on Empathy: Paving a Way Towards Integration .....	29
	Francis B. Payo
Part II Intersubjectivity and Social Ontology
4	Personally Embedded Qualitative Social Ontology: Issues from Stein and Husserl .....	55
	Francesca De Vecchi
5	Us &amp; Them: Edith Stein/T.W. Adorno and Socially Constituted Identity .....	85
	Pól O'Hagan
6	Empathy in the Teaching/Learning Relation: Stein, Husserl, and Arendt .....	101
	James McGuirk
Part III Discerning the Distinct Positions of Husserl and Stein
7	Stein's Concepts of "Lifepower" and "Core" in the Description of the Living Body .....	117
	Valentina Gaudiano

8	Edith Stein and Edmund Husserl on Phenomenology. The Balance of the Steinian Reception of Transcendental Phenomenology in her Introduction to Philosophy .....	133
	Carlos Guillermo Viaña Rubio
9	Stein’s Contribution to the Phenomenological Foundation of the Social Sciences in Conversation with Schutz’s .....	153
	Mette Lebech
Part IV Transcendental Intersubjectivity and Philosophical Anthropology
10	Stein’s Philosophical Anthropology as a Completion of Husserl’s Project for a Foundation of the Sciences. Ideen II – The “Master” and His Co-Genius .....	169
	Claudia Mariéle Wulf
11	Rethinking Edmund Husserl’s and Edith Stein’s Philosophical Anthropology and Metaphysics .....	183
	Angela Ales Bello
12	Concluding Observations .....	201
	Mette Lebech
	Author Index .....	213
	Subject Index .....	215