

Representation and Memory in Graphic Novels

Golnar Nabizadeh

Contents

List of figures	vi
Acknowledgements	viii
Introduction: Comics, memory, and the visual archive	1
1 Migrant memories in Henry Yoshitaka Kiyama's The Four Immigrants Manga and The Arrival by Shaun Tan	27
2 Racism and cultural afterlives: American Born Chinese by Gene Luen Yang and Pat Grant's Blue	62
3 Narrating trauma in Marjane Satrapi's Persepolis	89
4 Memories of illness in Epileptic by David B. and Stitches by David Small	112
5 Multimodal memories: The Photographer Into War-Torn Afghanistan with Doctors Without Borders by Guibert et al. and Waltz with Bashir by Ari Folman and David Polonsky	138
6 Comics online: Memories from the exclusion zone in "At Work Inside Our Detention Centres: A Guard's Story" by Wallman et al. and "Villawood" by Safdar Ahmed	163
Afterword	185
Index	190