

Contents

List of Illustrations	xiv
Abbreviations	xv
Note to the Reader	xvi
Introduction: 1688. Istanbul, London, Paris	1
Europe, the Ottoman Empire, and Connectedness	7
Information Flows and the History of Communication	11
The Trumbull Papers	15
1. The World of Sir William Trumbull	19
Trumbull's Education and Career	22
The Uses of Turcica	31
2. Other Ways of Knowing	42
Oral Informants and Experts	43
The Efficiency of Correspondence Networks	49
Archives and Registers	53
Conclusion	64
3. European-Ottoman Sociability in Istanbul	65
A Material World	69
The Business of Diplomacy	73
The English Embassy	79
Conclusion	86
4. Overcoming Distance in Everyday Communication	88
European News in Istanbul	94
Beyond Dragomans	102
Trumbull's Network and its Limits	109
Conclusion	120
5. The Life of a Story: The Deposition of Sultan Mehmed IV	122
The Newsletters of Istanbul	127
Thomas Coke and Oral Networks of Communication	137
Writing a Revolution	142
The Afterlives of Mehmed IV in Scribal and Print Media	149
Conclusion	157
Conclusion: Information Flows in the Seventeenth Century	159
Bibliography	164
Index	189