

CONTENTS

CHAPTER	PAGE
I. BROCKDEN BROWN AND THE PIONEERS	I
1. The First American Novels	I
2. Revolutionary Potpourri; Modern Chivalry	6
3. The Author of Wieland	9
II. THE NOVEL ESTABLISHED: THE AGE OF COOPER AND SIMMS	14
1. "Whose Name Is with His Country's Woven"	14
2. The Leatherstocking Tales	16
3. Salt Water	17
4. History at Home and Abroad	19
5. To Save the Nation	21
6. Cooper as Novelist	24
7. Cooper's Followers and Contemporaries; William Gilmore Simms	30
III. THE SOUL'S ROMANCE: HAWTHORNE	38
1. Hawthorne's Literary Ideals	38
2. Hawthorne's Life Experience	41
3. The Four Long Romances	43
4. The Anatomy of Evil	51
IV. THE AMBIGUITIES OF HERMAN MELVILLE	58
1. "The Man Who Lived among Cannibals"	58
2. Romances of Experience	59
3. Romances of Imagination	64
4. Fiction after Pierre	71
5. Ends and Means	73
V. MRS. STOWE AND SOME CONTEMPORARIES	82
1. "A Damned Mob of Scribbling Women"	82
2. The Novel as Evangel: Harriet Beecher Stowe	91

CHAPTER	PAGE
3. Mrs. Stowe: New England and Elsewhere	96
4. Mrs. Stowe: The Summing-Up	100
5. Two More Contemporaries: Holmes and DeForest	102
 VI. "THE LINCOLN OF OUR LITERATURE"	 109
1. Mark Twain: His Life Experience	109
2. Some Classifications	114
3. Fiction of the Contemporary Scene	116
4. Fiction out of Hannibal	117
5. History and Legend	121
6. Mark Twain's America	125
 VII. THE AMERICAN MIRROR: WILLIAM DEAN HOWELLS	 127
1. Howells's Life and Career	127
2. His Novels	129
3. The Realistic Ideal	130
4. The Novel and the Meaning of Life	135
5. How Shall the Reader Choose?	141
 VIII. THE AMERICAN AS ARTIST: HENRY JAMES	 145
1. Passionate Pilgrim	145
2. Some Technical Considerations	150
3. The Figure in the Carpet	153
4. "Historian of Fine Consciences"	156
5. The Third Period	160
6. Of Good and Evil	162
 IX. NOVELISTS OF THE 'EIGHTIES	 166
1. The Far-Ranging Novels of Marion Crawford	166
2. Two Individualists: Miss Jewett and Miss Wool- son	171
3. S. Weir Mitchell: Medicine and Romance	177
4. Some "Purpose-Novels" of the 'Eighties	180
 X. SOME SOUTHERN NOVELISTS OF THE 'NINETIES AND AFTER	 186
1. The Finely-Wrought Art of James Lane Allen	186
2. "Epitaph of a Civilization"	191
3. Allotropes and Mary Johnston	197

CHAPTER	PAGE
XI. TOWARDS NATURALISM	204
1. Naturalism and the Naturalists	204
2. Hamlin Garland: "Veritism" and After	205
X 3. Stephen Crane, Harbinger	212
4. The Achievement of Frank Norris	216
5. Jack London and the Cult of Primitive Sensation	222
XII. VOICES OF THE NEW CENTURY	230
1. Mary Austin, Sybil	230
2. Robert Herrick, Idealist	235
3. Booth Tarkington, Success	244
✓ XIII. EDITH WHARTON: SOCIAL BACKGROUND AND ETHICAL DILEMMA	252
1. The Making of a Novelist	252
2. General Survey I: Ethan Frome and Others	255
3. General Survey II: The Body of Mrs. Wharton's Fiction	257
4. Affirmation: Of Art and of Life	262
XIV. ELLEN GLASGOW: TRIUMPH AND DESPAIR	267
1. Tradition and the Novelist	267
2. A Social History of Virginia	270
3. The Last Citadel	278
XV. THEODORE DREISER, THE MYSTIC NATURALIST	281
1. The Matrix	281
2. Sister Carrie and After	285
3. The End of the Road	292
XVI. IN THE SECOND DECADE	294
1. Dorothy Canfield: "The Rhythm of the Perma- nent"	294
2. The Sympathetic Realism of Elsie Singmaster	299
3. Joseph Hergesheimer: "Brocade and Dream"	306
4. Sherwood Anderson: The Cri de Coeur as Novel	311

CHAPTER	PAGE
XVII. WILLA CATHER AND THE LOVELY PAST	319
1. Points of Departure	319
2. Biographical	322
3. Studies in Fulfillment	323
4. Studies in Frustration	326
5. Retreat to the Past	329
6. The Last Novels	331
7. Literary Theory and Craftsmanship	333
8. "Life Hurrying Past . . ."	336
 XVIII. JAMES BRANCH CABELL: THE ANATOMY OF ROMANTICISM	 339
1. Lichfield out of Poictesme	339
2. "As It Ought To Be"	344
3. Of Phallic Comedy	346
4. Nonbiographical	347
5. "To What Does the Whole Business Tend?"	349
 XIX. SINCLAIR LEWIS AND THE BABBITT WARREN	 354
1. The Road Ahead	354
2. Imp of Fame	356
3. Wanderings and Divagations	361
4. Under Which King, Bezonian?	363
 XX. ERNEST HEMINGWAY: LEGEND AND REALITY	 368
1. In his Time	368
2. Some Considerations of Method	371
3. Significances	373
4. A Question of Adequacy	378
 XXI. NOVELISTS OF THE 'TWENTIES	 381
1. John Dos Passos: The Collectivist Novel	382
2. The Inner Vision: Elizabeth Madox Roberts	389
3. Romance and Fantasy: Elinor Wylie, Robert Nathan, and Thornton Wilder	396

CONTENTS

XV

CHAPTER	PAGE
XXII. NOVELISTS OF THE 'THIRTIES	409
1. Gargantua as Novelist: Thomas Wolfe	409
2. Chamber of Horrors—Southern Exposure	415
3. Return to History	425
4. Two Kinds of Novelist: Steinbeck and Marquand	438
XXIII. A NOTE ON THE FICTION OF THE 'FORTIES AND AFTER	449
APPENDIX: NOTES ON SOME NOVELISTS NOT CONSIDERED IN THE TEXT	465
SELECTED BIBLIOGRAPHY WITH ANNOTA- TIONS	497
INDEX OF NAMES	557
INDEX OF TITLES	565