

CONTENTS

FOREWORD	vii
INTRODUCTION	xi
I ROBERT BRIDGES
I A Self-Portrait	i
II Three Friends: Dolben, Dixon, Bradley	10
III As Others Saw Him	18
IV The Basis of his Friendship with Hopkins	22
II TWO OXFORD UNDERGRADUATES
I The Birth of a Friendship	29
II Hopkins's Visit to Rochdale	32
III The Parting of the Ways	38
III OPPOSITIONS AND MISUNDERSTANDINGS
I Bridges's Political Views	48
II Hopkins's Red Letter	53
III 'Stirring the Reluctant Fire'	57
IV TWO POETS DISCUSS EACH OTHER'S VERSE
I Bridges invites Criticism	70
II Hopkins criticizes Bridges	76
III Bridges criticizes Hopkins	92
IV Bridges tries his Hand at Sprung Rhythm	98
V Bridges suggests the Influence of Whitman	105
VI Mutual Gains	108
V THE VARIED INTERESTS OF TWO CULTURED MINDS
I Prosody and Milton	112
II A Common Hobby: Music	122
III Literary and Religious Criticism	132
CONCLUSION
I True Friends	148
II The Legatee of Hopkins's Poems	156
APPENDIX: Chronology of the Life of Robert Bridges	167
SELECT BIBLIOGRAPHY OF ROBERT BRIDGES	171
INDEX	179