

---

Contents

Preface and Acknowledgements	7
Introduction	8
1 'Simple and Plain to Sight': Building in Early Tudor England	11
2 Power and the Courtier House	24
3 'Tournid to Pleasure': Architecture and the Sense of the Past	43
4 The Courtyard and the Household	59
5 'A Fayre New Parlor': The Evidence of Inventories	108
6 'The Anticke All Gilt': England and the Renaissance	120
7 The Conversion of the Monasteries	136
8 'Withe Timbar, Brike and Flynte': Building Materials and their Regional Pattern	163
9 'A Farther and More Ample Discourse': The Somerset Group and a Change of Direction	184
Gazetteer	200
Footnotes	218
Index	228

---