

Contents

Acknowledgments	vii
Introduction	i

PART I THE ORIGINS OF UNIVERSAL EXPOSITIONS IN FRANCE

1 Traditional Rivalries	7
2 Building the Temple of Industry	12
3 The Crystal Palace, 1851	22

PART II THE UNIVERSAL EXPOSITION OF 1855: THE APOTHEOSIS OF ECLECTICISM

4 Second Empire Art Policy: The 1850s	33
5 Advance Planning: Getting the Show Underway	39
6 Four Heroes and a Self-made Man	49
7 Choosing the Arms of France: The Jury	62
8 Critical Theories: The Apotheosis of Eclecticism	66
9 Looking at French Art: Eclecticism in Practice	73
10 Looking at Foreign Art: Reflections in a French Mirror	97
11 Crowning the Victors	109
12 The End of an Era	114

PART III THE UNIVERSAL EXPOSITION OF 1867: THE DEATH OF HISTORY PAINTING IN FRANCE

13 Second Empire Art Policy: The 1860s	123
14 Industry's Revenge	128
15 Artist Malcontents	135
16 The Death of Ingres	151

17	The Death of History Painting	154
18	Landscape: The Path Not Taken	175
19	The Triumph of Genre	187
20	The End	194
	Notes	198
	Select Bibliography	225
	Photographic Acknowledgments	238
	Index	239