

Contents

Acknowledgements	ix
Foreword	xi
Introduction	I
Venice	I
Architectural orientalism	2
The stato da mar as a mirror of the East	3
The Islamic city as a typology	5
I Trade and Travel	15
Trade	15
Preparatory briefings	16
Education	19
The ritual of departure	23
The voyage	25
Naval architecture	27
Disembarkation	29
Colonies	29
Colonial administration	32
Class and gender in the colonies	33
Colonial buildings	35
Moslem links	36
2 Transmission and Propagation	43
Agencies of transmission	43
The writings of travellers	44
The mirror of the familiar	45
Physical and mental responses	48
Oral narratives	50
Memory	51
The transmission of architectural information through         two-dimensional images	53
Portable objects	59
Propagation	62

3	San Marco	65
	Apostles and epistles	65
	Venice and Alexandria	67
	Egyptian settings in the mosaics	71
	The first Marcian mosaic cycle	74
	The atrium mosaics	78
	Books and mosaics	80
	The Cappella Zen	88
	The façade mosaics	93
	The last Venetian Pharos	94
	Architectural orientalisation	99
4	The Merchant City	111
	The fashioning of Venice's townscape	111
	Forma urbis	111
	The Rialto market	113
	The markets of the eastern Mediterranean	114
	Eastern characteristics at the Rialto	115
	Telling the time	119
	The fondaco	120
	The Venetian fondaco	126
5	Palaces	133
	Merchants at home	133
	Plan	134
	Façades	140
	The development of Venetian Gothic	141
	The ogee arch and the East	142
	Façade decoration	146
	Colour	151
	Windows	154
	The 'mihrab window'	155
	Balconies	159
	The altana	162
	Interiors	162
	Courtyards	164
	Minor and collective housing	165
	The corporate identity of the patrician merchant class	166
6	The Palazzo Ducale	171
	The project	171
	The design	172
	Islamic characteristics	175
	Solomonic imagery	180
	The capitals	183
	The interiors	183
7	The Pilgrim City	189
	Medieval pilgrimage to the Holy Land	189
	The pre-pilgrimage tour	193

Paradise	195
The Holy Land	197
The Temple Mount and the Holy Sepulchre	200
Venice as a transmitter of materials and craftsmen for buildings	206
The east-west transmission of images by pilgrims	206
The influence of pilgrimage on Venetian architecture	209
Résumé	215
Conclusion	217
Appendix: Letter of Benedetto Sanudo, son of Matteo, to his brother Andrea	219
Notes	222
Glossary	247
Bibliography	250
Index	272
Photograph Credits	283