

Contents

General Editor's Introduction	ix
List of Tables	x
Maps	xii
Conventions	xiv
Acknowledgements	xv
1 Introduction: Why Japan and its Politics Matter	1
2 Historical Background: Japan's Emergence as a Modern State and the Politics of War, 1853–1945	12
3 Social Background: How far Social Norms and Behaviour Influence Politics	28
4 Political Reconstruction and Development, 1945–1989	48
5 One Step Forward and One Step Back: Attempting Political Reform in the 1990s	76
6 New Politics for the New Millennium: The Koizumi Effect	101
7 Who Runs Japan?	135
8 Parliament and Parliamentary Elections: The Changing Character of Electioneering	156
9 The Politics of Party: The Liberal Democrats and their Rivals	179
10 Some Problems of the Constitution	202
11 Issues of Domestic Political Concern	224

12	Issues of Foreign Policy and Defence	246
13	Conclusions: The Analytical Challenge of Japanese Politics	265
	Appendix 1: House of Representatives election results, 1946–1955	273
	Appendix 2: House of Representatives election results, 1958–1972	275
	Appendix 3: House of Representatives election results, 1976–1990	276
	Appendix 4: House of Representatives election results, 1993–2005	278
	Appendix 5: House of Councillors election results, 11 July 2004	280
	Appendix 6: House of Councillors election results, 29 July 2007	281
	Further Reading	282
	Index	289