

CONTENTS

Acknowledgements	ix
Author's Note	xi

I. SYNOPTIC

A Brief History of Canadian Poetry	3
Eclectic Detachment: Aspects of Identity in Canadian Poetry	22

II. BEFORE CONFEDERATION

Colonialism & Nationalism in Canadian Poetry before Confederation	33
Prose of the Colonial Period	47
The Canadian Poet: To Confederation	55

III. POETS OF A GOLDEN AGE?

The Fredericton Poets	65
A Summing-up	77
The Poetry of Duncan Campbell Scott	79

IV. A CHOICE OF MODERNS

Some Poems of E. J. Pratt: Aspects of Imagery and Theme	99
F. R. Scott and Some of His Poems	115
Earle Birney: A Unified Personality	125
A Reading of Anne Wilkinson	134
Critical Improvisations on Margaret Avison's Winter Sun	142
The Poetry of P. K. Page	146
The Canadian Poet: After Confederation	156

V. SOME POLEMICS: EARLY &amp; LATE
Wanted—Canadian Criticism	167
A Rejected Preface to New Provinces , 1936	170
Canadian Poetry—A Minority Report	174
Poet	186
A Survey of English-Canadian Letters—A Review	194
Impromptu Remarks Spoken at the International Poetry Conference, Man and His World, 8 September 1967	206

VI. A PERSONAL EPILOGUE

A Self-Review	211
The Poetic Process: On the Making of Poems	217