

TABLE OF CONTENTS

Foreword .....	vii
Robert Alexander Ph.D.
Acknowledgements .....	xi
Introduction .....	1
Chapter One.....	11
The (Re)emergence of American Documentary Narratives
The 1960s and How the (Narrative) World Quivered
The New Journalists–Novelists or “The Gang That Would Not Write Straight”
Chapter Two .....	31
Narrative Documentation in the Postmodern Matrix
(With the Slovene Analogue)
The Postmodern Condition: A Catastrophe or a New Sense of Freedom and Democracy?
The Theoretical Background of the Concept of the Postmodern Postmodern Literary Theory
Chapter Three .....	51
Narrative Hybrids as Possible Answers to the Notions of Fragmentation and Decentering
The Ironic and Parodic Metafiction
Chapter Four.....	65
The Documentary Novel: On the Theoretical Side
On the Bending of Truth: The Question of (Novelistic/Fictional) Referentiality–Textualization of Facts
On the Bending of Truth: The Question of (Documentary) Fictionality
The Differentia Specifica of the Documentary Novel: At the Core of Factions
Ethical Concerns In and Around the Documentary Novel

Chapter Five .....	110
The Documentary Novel: On the (Mostly) Practical Side– Application of Theoretical Premises The Question/The Role of the Author, the Narrator, and the Reader The Plotting of the Story: An Assemblage of Historical (Non)Causality and Inconclusiveness of Reality
Chapter Six .....	163
Slovenes and Documentary Narratives (The 1960s and After)
Chapter Seven.....	178
Future Prospects of Nonfiction Writing
Chapter Eight.....	198
Concluding Thoughts
Appendix A .....	202
Original Story of the Kansas Murder as it Appeared in The New York Times on November 16, 1959
Appendix B.....	204
The Genesis of In Cold Blood
Appendix C.....	209
Capote’s Revisions of the Kansas Story
Appendix D .....	213
The Genesis of The Armies of the Night
Bibliography .....	215
Index.....	233