

TABLE OF CONTENTS

Introduction vii
Claire Maniez (University Stendhal Grenoble 3, France)

Part I: Literature as a History of Science

Chapter One 3
The Grammar of Sciences in The Education of Henry Adams
Michel Imbert (University Denis Diderot Paris 7, France)

Chapter Two 19
Deadpan to Demonic—Subtextual Uses of Science in Thomas Pynchon's
Inherent Vice
Bénédicte Chorier-Fryd (Poitiers University, France)

Chapter Three 31
From Bosons to Titans: the Genealogy of Science in Thomas Pynchon's
Mason & Dixon
Gilles Chamerois (Brest University, France)

Part II: Literature and Neurosciences

Chapter Four 51
A Comparative Epistemology for Literary Theory and Neurosciences
Noëlle Batt (University Paris 8 Vincennes-Saint Denis, France)

Chapter Five 71
Alan Turing's Imitation Game and the Literary Imagination
Yves Abrioux (University Paris 8 Vincennes-Saint Denis, France)

Chapter Six 103
Mind-reading—Science Fiction and Neurosciences
Pawel Frelik (Maria Curie-Sklodowska University, Lublin, Poland)

Part III: Literature and the Ethics of Science

Chapter Seven.....	117
Uncentering the Self: William T. Vollmann's Copernican System in The Atlas Françoise Palleau (University Paris 13, France)
Chapter Eight.....	129
John Adams's Doctor Atomic : Poetry and the Technologies of Terror Mathieu Duplay (University Denis Diderot Paris 7, France)
Chapter Nine.....	147
Signs of Time: VAS, a Story of Languages Anne-Laure Tissut (Rouen University, France)

Part IV: Hypertextuality, Technology and Literature

Chapter Ten	159
Robert Coover, Or the Adventures of the Novel in the Age of Digital Production Stéphane Vanderhaeghe (University of Cergy-Pontoise, France)
Chapter Eleven	177
Between the Visceral and the Virtual: Navigating the Embedded Surfaces of Shelley Jackson's Patchwork Girl Arnaud Regnauld (University Paris 8 Vincennes-Saint Denis, France)
Contributors.....	195