

Contents

List of Illustrations	page vii
Notes on Contributors	viii
Introduction	I
Daniel Cook and Nicholas Seager
1 On Authorship, Appropriation, and Eighteenth-Century Fiction	20
Daniel Cook
2 The Afterlife of Family Romance	43
Michael McKeon
3 From Pícaro to Pirate: Afterlives of the Picaresque in Early Eighteenth-Century Fiction	72
Leah Orr
4 Ghosts of the Guardian in Sir Charles Grandison and Bleak House	91
Sarah Raff
5 The Novel's Afterlife in the Newspaper, 1712–1750	111
Nicholas Seager
6 Wit and Humour for the Heart of Sensibility: The Beauties of Fielding and Sterne	133
M-C. Newbould
7 The Spectral Iamb: The Poetic Afterlife of the Late Eighteenth-Century Novel	153
Dahlia Porter
8 Rethinking Fictionality in the Eighteenth-Century Puppet Theatre	174
David A. Brewer

9	The Novel in the Musical Theatre: Pamela , Caleb Williams , Frankenstein , and Ivanhoe Michael Burden	193
10	Gillray's Gulliver and the 1803 Invasion Scare David Francis Taylor	212
11	Defoe's Cultural Afterlife, Mainly on Screen Robert Mayer	233
12	Happiness in Austen's Sense and Sensibility and its Afterlife in Film Jillian Heydt-Stevenson	253
13	Refashioning The History of England : Jane Austen and 1066 and All That Peter Sabor	273
	Select Bibliography	290
	Index	295