

Contents

Preface to the 2003 Paperback	xiii
Preface to the 1977 Edition	xvii
Prologue: The African Heritage and the Middle Passage	3
Part One: Development of Black Folk Music to 1800	19
1. Early Reports of African Music in British and French America	21
La Calinda and the Banza	30
Other African Dancing	38
2. More Black Instruments and Early White Reaction	47
Drums and Other African Instruments	47
The Balafo	55
Legal Restrictions on Instruments	58
3. The Role of Music in Daily Life	63
Funerals	63
Pinkster and Other African Celebrations in the North	66
Worksongs and Other Kinds of African Singing	68
4. The Acculturation of African Music in the New World	77
The Arrival of Africans and Their Music	78
Acculturation in New Orleans	90
5. Conversion to Christianity	100

6. Acculturated Black Musicians in the Thirteen Colonies	112
The African Jig, a Black-to-White Exchange	120
Part Two: Secular and Sacred Black Folk Music, 1800–1867	125
7. African Survivals	127
Persisting Musical and Cultural Patterns	128
Black Music in New Orleans, 1820–67	132
8. Acculturated Dancing and Associated Instruments	139
Patting Juba	141
Drums, Quills, Banjo, Bones, Triangle, Tambourine	144
Fiddlers	147
Instrumental Combinations	155
9. Worksongs	161
Field Work and Domestic Chores	161
Industrial and Steamboat Workers	164
Boat Songs	166
Corn, Cane, and Other Harvest Songs	172
Singing on the March	176
Street Cries and Field Hollers	181
10. Distinctive Characteristics of Secular Black Folk Music	184
Whistling	184
Improvisation	184
Satire	187
Style of Singing	188
Other Secular Music	189
11. The Religious Background of Sacred Black Folk Music, 1801–67	191
Opposition to Religious Instruction of Slaves	192
Camp Meetings	197
Missions to the Slaves	199
Black Religious Groups	202
Opposition to Secular Music and Dancing	207
12. Distinctive Black Religious Music	217
Spirituals	217
Attempts to Suppress Black Religious Singing	229
The Shout	232
Funerals	234

Part Three: The Emergence of Black Folk Music during the Civil War	239
13. Early Wartime Reports and the First Publication of a Spiritual with Its Music	241
14. The Port Royal Experiment	252
Historical Background	252
Earliest Published Reports	256
Wartime Publication of Song Texts and Music	260
15. Reports of Black Folk Music, 1863–67	274
Criticism of “This Barbaric Music”	274
Recognition of a Distinctive Folk Music	275
The Shout	278
Worksongs	287
Performance Style	290
Introduction of “New” Songs by the Teachers	296
16. Slave Songs of the United States:
Its Editors	303
William Francis Allen	304
Charles Pickard Ware	310
Lucy McKim Garrison	314
17. Slave Songs of the United States:
Its Publication	321
The Contributors	321
Problems of Notation	326
Assembling the Collection	329
Publication and Reception	331
Conclusion	343
Appendices	349
I. Musical Excerpts from the Manuscript Diaries of William Francis Allen	349
II. Table of Sources for the Banjo, Chronologically Arranged	359
III. Earliest Published Versions of “Go Down, Moses”	363
Bibliography	374
Index	416