

Contents

Preface	vii
Introduction	i
1. Genesis	12
White Tillers	12
Black Harvesters	17
Gardens South, Gardens North	41
2. Belles and Beaux	47
Black Female Subjectivity and the Social Skin	47
Rituals for Aggregation	49
White Male Subjectivity and the Cult of Chivalry	60
A Renaissance of Chivalry: The House Behind the Cedars	65
3. Beauties and Beasts	75
A Peculiar Sensation, This Double-Consciousness	75
Black Man, New Man: Chesnut's John (Walden) Warwick	80
The Beast-Bridegroom: Johnson's Ex-Coloured Man	89
The Machine-Made New Negro: Schuyler's Matthew Fisher	96
4. New Slaves and Lynching Bees	104
The Deformation of Black Subjectivity	104
A Strange Fruit in the New Garden	115
A New South, a New Religion	119
Subjects, Societies, and Tropes: The Marrow of Tradition	124

5. The Wars for Eden	134
Hell: War and Racism	134
France: (In)versions of Paradise	143
Harlem: Black Garden, White Snake	148
Southern Edens and the "Spoils" of War	153
6. Black Adams	168
Subjectivity and the Adamic Paradigm	168
The Cosmography of Native Son's Fictive World	176
Configurations of Desire in The Street	188
7. Totems and Taboos	201
Configurations of a Southern Fictive World	201
Totemic Character and Biracial Liminals	213
Totemism and White Male Subject Formation	216
Historiographic Counterdiscourse: The Rootless	222
8. The Textualization of Blackness: Invisible Man	235
The Trope: "Here in This Eden"	235
The Subject: "Who Was I, How Had I Come to Be?"	239
The Society: "The Patterns of Men's Lives"	251
Conclusion	271
Notes	277
Bibliography	285
Index	299