

TABLE OF CONTENTS

EDITORIAL NOTE	xi
PREFACE	xiii
INTRODUCTION	xvii
CHAPTER I / Hindu Systems of Thought as Epistemic Disciplines	1
I. The Science of Philosophies	1
II. The Mechanism of Organization	9
III. The Structural Design	19
IV. Para-Methodology	33
V. Modality and Modalization	36
A. Deontic Modalization	42
B. Apodictic Modalization	42
C. Hypothetical Modalization	43
VI. The Self-Developing Culture and Text	43
VII. Six Epistemic Disciplines Unfolding Into One Another	48
VIII. Modal Semiotics and the Categories of Philosophical Thinking	54
IX. Six Entries into the World of Philosophical Reflections	56
X. Summa Philosophiae	69
CHAPTER II / The Birth of 'Meaning': A Systematic Genealogy of Indian Semantics	71
I. Segregation of Meaning and Language	71
II. The Rgveda in the Making: A Meaningful Activity Without 'Meaning'	79
III. The Nirukta : A Knot of Semantic and Etymological Problems	88
IV. Pāṇini : Separating and Interconnecting Language and Logic	117
V. The Individual and the Universal in Language and Knowledge	133

CHAPTER III / Dialectics in Kant and in the Nyāya-Sūtra : Toward the History of the Formation of Formal Logical Thinking	141
CHAPTER IV / The Canonical Self in the World of Knowledge: A Note on Nyāya Gnoseology	180
CHAPTER V / Revelation in Advaita Vedānta as an Experiment in the Semantic Destruction of Language	218
I. Theoretical Basis of the Possibility of Coming to Know Brahman (Paryāya)	225
II. Intuitive Basis of the Possibility of Coming to Know Brahman (Prayojana)	228
III. Paryāya of the First Stage of Reflection from the Structure of the Text to the Nature of Brahman : The Theory of False Attribution and its Sublation (Transcendence)	230
IV. Prayojana of the First Stage of Reflection: The Intuition of False Attribution and its Sublation (Transcendence)	232
V. Paryāya of the Second Stage of Reflection: The Theory of Brahman Shown in a Metaphoric Occurrence (Lakṣaṇā- vṛitti)	234
VI. Prayojana of the Second Stage of Reflection: Intuition of Brahman Shown by the Method of Metamorphic Defini- tion	238
VII. Language Inappropriateness Exposed and Brahman Demonstrated by the Netivāda Method: The Theory of Intuition (Paryāya)	240
VIII. Prayojana of the Vedic Realization by the Netivāda Method: The Intuition of a Theory	242
CHAPTER VI / Is The Bodhisattva a Skeptic? On the Tri- chotomy of 'Indicative', 'Recollective', and 'Collective' Signs	247
CHAPTER VII / Hindu Values and Buddhism: An Exemplary Discourse	263
I. Methodological	263
II. Theoretical	281
II.1. The Mīmāṃsā Normology	288

TABLE OF CONTENTS

ix

CHAPTER VIII / Understanding Cultural Traditions Through Types of Thinking	299
I. Level of Absolute Reality	308
II. Level of Phenomenation	308
III. Level of Absolute Irrality	309
CHAPTER IX / The Family of Hindu 'Visions' as Cultural Entities	330
Notes and References	350
Bibliography: Selected Works of David Zilberman	361
Index	367