

HENRY JAMES

Critical Assessments

Edited by Graham Clarke

VOLUME III
A Twentieth-century Overview

HELM INFORMATION

Contents

172	FORD MADDOX HUEFFER, Henry James A Critical Study , London, 1913, pp. 28–38	1
173	PERCY LUBBOCK, Introduction to The Letters of Henry James , New York, 1920	6
174	THOMAS BEER, 'James and Stephen Crane', Stephen Crane: A Study in American Letters , New York, 1923	17
175	VAN WYCK BROOKS, 'Two Phases of Henry James' The Pilgrimage of Henry James , New York, 1925	19
176	MORRIS ROBERTS, Henry James's Criticism , Cambridge, Boston, 1929. The entire book length study is here reproduced	25
177	VERNON LOUIS PARRINGTON, 'Henry James and the Nostalgia of Culture', Main Currents in American Thought , New York, 1930	93
178	EDWARD J. O'BRIEN, 'Henry James', The American Short Story , New York, 1931, chapter 7, pp. 117–38	95
179	WILLIAM TROY, 'Henry James and the Young Writers', The Bookman , June 1931	104
180	FORD MADDOX HUEFFER, 'The Old Man' Return to Yesterday , New York, 1932	114
181	PELHAM EDGAR, 'The Essential Novelist? Henry James', The Art of the Novel , New York, 1937, pp. 172–83	119
182	STEPHEN SPENDER, 'The School of Experience in the Early Novels', Hound and Horn , April–May 1934, pp. 413–33	127
183	EDNA KENTON, 'Henry James and the World', Hound and Horn , April–May 1934	138
184	RICHARD P. BLACKMUR, 'The Critical Prefaces', Hound and Horn , April–May 1934, pp. 444–77	143
185	EDMUND WILSON, 'The Ambiguity of Henry James', The Triple Thinkers , New York 1948, originally published in Hound and Horn , April–May 1934, pp. 385–406	164
186	MORTON B. ZABEL, 'The Poetics of Henry James', Poetry: A Magazine of Verse , February 1935	197

- 187 JANET ADAM SMITH, 'Henry James and Robert Louis Stevenson', London Mercury, 1934, 1936, pp. 412–20 201
- 188 F.O. MATTHIESSEN, 'Hawthorne and James' from The American Renaissance, London, 1941, pp. 292–305 210
- 189 WILLIAM TROY, 'The Altar of Henry James', The New Republic, 15 February 1943, pp. 228–30 221
- 190 PHILIP RAHV, 'Attitudes to Henry James', The New Republic, 15 February 1943, pp. 220–4 226
- 191 F.O. MATTHIESSEN, 'James and the Plastic Arts', The Kenyon Review, Autumn 1943, pp. 533–50 232
- 192 FRANCIS FERGUSSON, 'James's Idea of Dramatic Form', The Kenyon Review, Autumn 1943, pp. 495–507 244
- (193) YVOR WINTERS, 'Henry James and the Relation of Morals to Manners', American Review, October 1937, vol. 9, pp. 482–503. Reprinted in In Defense of Reason, 1947 253
- 194 ALAN WADE, 'Henry James as Dramatic Critique', Theatre Arts Monthly, New York, 1943, vol. 27, pp. 735–40 285
- 195 OSBORN ANDREAS, Henry James and the Expanding Horizon, Washington, Seattle, 1948, 'Introduction', pp. 1–21 290
- 196 JOSEPH WARREN BEACH, The Method of Henry James, Philadelphia, 1954, pp. 12–53 302
- 197 IRVING HOWE, 'The Political Vocation', Politics and the Novel, pp. 139–56 327
- (198) DOUGLAS GRANT, 'Henry James The American Abroad', Purpose and Place, London 1965, chapter 18, pp. 135–48 339
- 199 GRAHAM GREENE, 'The Plays of Henry James', Collected Essays, London, 1969, pp. 62–8 347
- 200 SEYMOUR CHATMAN, 'Parodies of James's Style: An Education', The Later Style of Henry James, Oxford, 1972, chapter 19, pp. 113–35 351
- 201 SERGIO PEROSA, 'The Middle Period', Henry James and the Experimental Novel, Charlottesville, Va., 1978, pp. 11–76. 367