

Table of Contents

Preface	vii
I. REPRESENTATION IN THE PHILOSOPHY OF LANGUAGE	1
James W. Cornman , In Search of Criteria for Property Identity and Difference	3
P.F. Strawson , Cornman on Criteria of Property Identity	19
Gilbert Harman , Noun Phrases Derived from Variable Binding Operators and Grandy's Theory of Pronominalization	23
P.F. Strawson , Harman on Pronouns and their Antecedents	41
Wilfrid Sellars , On the Introduction of Abstract Entities	47
II. REPRESENTATION IN EPISTEMOLOGY	75
Fred I. Dretske , The Content of Knowledge	77
Jonathan Bennett , Comments on Dretske's "The Content of Knowledge"	95
William W. Rozeboom , The Epistemology of Representation. Part I: What Is Semantics a Theory of, and How Do I Know There Are Such Things?	97
Jonathan Bennett , Comments on Rozeboom's "Epistemology of Representation"	137
Peter Unger , A Skeptical Problem About Representation	141

III. REPRESENTATION IN METAPHYSICS 159

David Shwayder, Wittgenstein’s “Picture Theory” and Aristotle 161

Hidé Ishiguro, Representation: An Investigation Based on a Passage in the Tractatus 189

David Pears, Representation in Wittgenstein’s Tractatus 203

Dennis Stampe, Show and Tell 221