

CONTENTS

PART ONE

	Page
THE PSYCHOANALYTICAL FOUNDATION OF HUMAN VALUES	3
1. Does Psychoanalysis Lead to Ethical Nihilism?	3
2. The Dilemma of Ethical Argument	6
3. The Psychoanalytical Verification of Ultimate Values	8
4. Self-aggression in Cynicism and Pessimism	14
5. The Psychoanalysis of "Good"	19
6. Ethics as a Branch of Social Science: The Inquiry into Whether a Culture's Values Are Expressive or Repressive	27
7. Resistances and Therapeutic Statements	37
8. Modes of Identification: Repressive and Liberational	46
9. Utilitarianism Rewritten	49
10. The Crisis of John Stuart Mill: A Case Study in the Psychoanalysis of Ethics	55
11. The Limits of Scientific Ethics	62
12. The Empiricist Repression of Ethical Questions	65
References	68

PART TWO

CRITIQUE OF FREUD'S PHILOSOPHY OF CIVILIZATION	72
1. The Sense of Guilt: Its Social Conditions	72
2. Fathers and Sons: The Guilt of the Generations	75
3. The Guilt of Social Status	78
4. The Guilt of Fratricide	82
5. The Compatibility of Sexuality and Culture	86
6. Social Sources of Sexual Disablement	91
7. Reply to Sexual Pessimism	94
8. The Advancement of Civilization as the Increase of Human Happiness	101

	Page
9. Estrangement from Mankind	105
References	113
 PART THREE
FINAL QUESTIONS	116
1. The Self-doubt of Cultural Relativity	116
2. Ultimate Uncertainty	121
3. Beyond Ideology	126
References	130
INDEX	131