

TABLE OF CONTENTS

|                  |     |
|------------------|-----|
| Permissions..... | vii |
|------------------|-----|

Editor's Introduction

|                                                               |    |
|---------------------------------------------------------------|----|
| Alfred J. Drake, Rick Armstrong and Shep Steiner ..... | ix |
|---------------------------------------------------------------|----|

SECTION I. PHILOSOPHY AND PEDAGOGY

Some Paradoxes of New Criticism

|                               |   |
|-------------------------------|---|
| Minda Rae Amiran ..... | 3 |
|-------------------------------|---|

Elucidating the Pleasures of the Text: The New Criticism's Pedagogical Value

|                             |    |
|-----------------------------|----|
| Rick Armstrong ..... | 27 |
|-----------------------------|----|

In Defense of Close Reading: Elizabeth Bishop's Fish

|                                |    |
|--------------------------------|----|
| Zachariah Pickard ..... | 53 |
|--------------------------------|----|

SECTION II. HISTORY AND CROSS-COMPARISON

Ad Textum, Ad Hominem: F. R. Leavis and the "New Criticism"

|                          |    |
|--------------------------|----|
| Chris Joyce ..... | 71 |
|--------------------------|----|

The New Criticism and Southernness: A Case for Cultural Studies

|                             |    |
|-----------------------------|----|
| Imola Bülgözdí ..... | 89 |
|-----------------------------|----|

French New Criticism and Anglo-American New Criticisms

|                                |     |
|--------------------------------|-----|
| Florian Pennanech ..... | 109 |
|--------------------------------|-----|

A New Reading of Clement Greenberg's Modernism C. 1950-1960

|                                  |     |
|----------------------------------|-----|
| Shepherd F. Steiner ..... | 135 |
|----------------------------------|-----|

|                    |     |
|--------------------|-----|
| Contributors ..... | 167 |
|--------------------|-----|

|             |     |
|-------------|-----|
| Index ..... | 169 |
|-------------|-----|