PART THREE: GHAZALS (HOMAGE TO GHALIB)

- The clouds are electric in this university. 277
- The ones who camped on the slopes, below the bare summit, 277
- In Central Park we talked of our own cowardice. 278
- Did you think I was talking about my life? 278
- Blacked-out on a wagon, part of my life cut out forever— 279
- When they mow the fields, I see the world reformed 279
- Armitage of scrapiron for the radiations of a moon. 280
- When your sperm enters me, it is altered; 280
- The sapling springs, the milkweed blooms: obsolete Nature. 281
- The friend I can trust is the one who will let me have my death. 281
- Last night you wrote on the wall: Revolution is poetry. 282
- A dead mosquito, flattened against a door; 282
- So many minds in search of bodies 283
- The order of the small town on the riverbank, 283
- If these are letters, they will have to be misread. 284
- From here on, all of us will be living 284
- A piece of thread ripped-out from a fierce design, 285
